NFLD. FIRE FLARES UP BUT WIND SAVES TOWN

(See Page 10)

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A forest fire which threatened to wipe out two Bonaville Bay communities Monday flared up again today but a change in wind drove it away from settled areas.

Hundreds of residents of Hare Bay and adjacent Dover, 110 miles northwest of here, fled their homes Monday night while a force of 1,000 firefighters struggled to keep the flames from over-running the town. Most returned this morning.

U.S. Security Officer Jailed On Spy Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Irvin Chambers Scarbeck, an American foreign service officer, was arrested here today on charges of turning over national security information to the Communist government of Poland.

... woman involved?

Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, who announced the arrest, said FBI agents took Scarbeck into custody on a Washington street.

Scarbeck, a long-time employee of the state department, has been serving as second secretary in the American embassy at Warsaw. He returned here a week ago.

Scarbeck, 41, is a native of Brooklyn. Twice married, he has four children.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said Scarbeck was arrested on a warrant charging that from January through May of this year he transmitted classified information "affecting the security of the United States" to an agent of the people's republic of Poland.

TRACED BY EMBASSY

The FBI investigation, Hoover said, was based on information initially developed by the security office of the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw.

The justice department did not disclose the nature of the information Scarbeck is accused of passing to the Poles. Conviction under the charges carries a fine of $10,000, 10 years imprisonment or both.

Scarbeck was first employed by the state department in July, 1952, when he was transferred to San Francisco. He was commissioned as a foreign service officer in 1956. He received his assignment to Warsaw in December, 1958.

Prior to his employment by the state department he was a staff officer for the U.S. high commissioner in Germany.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said a woman was involved in the case.

"I was told that a Polish blonde seduced him and then blackmailed him," Fulbright said.

Peace Walkers Barred

LE HAVRE, France (AP)—French authorities today refused to let 25 "peace marchers" land in France. The group included Norwegians, Americans, Swedes and had planned to walk to Paris and then to Moscow as a demonstration against nuclear arms.

Tractor Group in Havana

HAVANA (CP)—The American delegation representing the "Tractors for Freedom" committee arrived here today by air and was greeted by middle-ranking officials of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government.

The four-member delegation flew in from Miami to arrange the exchange of 1,200 prisoners captured in the April 17 invasion for 500 tractors.

The mission was received at the airport by Major Luis Crespo of the Institute of Agrarian Reform; Enrique Cabre, chief of machinery of the institute, and Fernando Otero, aide to President Osvaldo Dorticos.

Castro left for Oriente province before the arrival of the mission.

Before leaving Miami the group declared its "humanitarian purpose" is to free the captured invaders by exchanging tractors for them, as originally proposed by Castro.

The technical delegation has limited powers to negotiate within terms set by its parent Tractors-for-Freedom Committee of prominent U.S. citizens.

'EXPLORATORY' SAYS JOHN D.

Sandys Coming For Trade Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—Commonwealth relations secretary Duncan Sandys will come to Ottawa soon, probably in the second week of July, for discussions on a possible United Kingdom move to join the Common Market, Prime Minister Diefenbaker informed the Commons today.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that in arranging for the talks, the Canadian government has made it clear they should be only "exploratory" and not involve binding decisions or understandings on what Canada's attitude would be to such a move.

The prime minister reiterated his proposal, made in the Commons last Friday, for a collective ministerial meeting of Commonwealth members. He suggested this might take place at next fall's regular meeting of Commonwealth economic ministers.

He said that some press comment on his statement last Friday, when he said a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers should be held "if necessary," incorrectly assumed that he wanted an immediate meeting of prime ministers.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it's impossible now to state whether such a meeting would be necessary. It would depend on the outcome of other talks.

But he said the government is insisting on "thorough and effective consultation."

New Trouble On Test Ban

GENEVA (AP)—The future of the stalled nuclear test ban talks was cast in deeper doubt today as Russia's insistence that the West either accept an inspection veto or transfer negotiations to the impending general disarmament conference.

Britain and the United States rejected both proposals but added that the proposal to transfer the talks would be studied carefully in London and Washington. They made clear previously they would never agree to a veto over the control machinery.

JFK Cancels Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy cancelled a speaking engagement today to speed recovery of his ailing back. Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said the decision indicated no worsening of the president's condition.

Can't make heads or tails out of that Ottawa move, 't Coyne a phrase.

Major Economic Row Looms In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Governor James E. Coyne of the Bank of Canada said today Finance Minister Fleming has requested his immediate resignation.

Mr. Coyne said he "will not resign quietly" under the circumstances relating to Mr. Fleming's request that he leave his post now and not wait for the Dec. 31 expiry of the governor's seven-year term.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Fleming declined comment when Liberal Paul Martin (Essex East) asked him about a Canadian Press story that Mr. Coyne had been asked to resign.

In a statement Mr. Coyne said Mr. Fleming had told him the cabinet was upset by the action of the central bank's board of directors in February, 1960, improving conditions of the pension for the bank's governors.

The finance minister said cabinet felt the bank governor had failed to discharge the responsibilities of his office in allowing the board of directors to take action on the pension, Mr. Coyne said.

Mr. Coyne said the action was taken unanimously and after thorough consideration and that the justice department had said it was entirely within the powers of the board.

'I Cannot Accept This Slander'

"This slander upon my own integrity I cannot ignore or accept," Mr. Coyne said. "It appears to be another element in a general campaign of injury and defamation directed against Crown corporations, the chief executive officers and other public servants."

"I cannot and will not resign quietly under such circumstances."

"For the sake of future governors of the bank, and in the interest of propriety and decency in the processes of government and in the conduct of public affairs, I feel myself under an obligation to ensure that this matter is brought into the open in order that it may receive full consideration and discussion."

"I may add that at no time has the government expressed disagreement with the operations of the Bank of Canada under my management, either in the field of monetary policy or in those fields, in which we act solely as agents and under the instructions of the minister of finance, namely in debt management and in operation of the exchange fund."

Mr. Coyne said that Mr. Fleming's request for his resignation was made on Tuesday, May 30 on behalf of the federal government.

The governor said Mr. Fleming told him the government was considering what action to take in the matter of the pension, had not yet come to a decision, and wanted Mr. Coyne's resignation before it came to a decision.

According to the rules of the bank's pension fund a special pension has always been provided to a governor or deputy governor immediately on termination of service.

Mr. Coyne added in his statement: "The minister of finance has suggested to me that another reason the government wanted me out of the way was that they were preparing certain programs which were apparently thought to be of such character that I would oppose them."

'Alarming Suggestion' Not Clarified

"This mysterious and alarming suggestion has not been clarified. Clearly I would be betraying the duties of my office to resign under such circumstances."

"It is for the government to disclose to the public what it is they are planning to do. I have never opposed government policy, and do not wish to do so."

"It is conceivable that at some stage and in some circumstances it would be the duty of the governor of the bank to resign on an important question of principle or policy, or on the other hand to make a strong public stand against some government proposal."

"The governor should not."

Money Mart on the Jump

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's money market registered hourly fluctuations today following announcement by James Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, that Finance Minister Fleming had demanded his resignation.

Bank spokesmen said exchange rates between the Canadian dollar and foreign currencies, normally steady on a daily basis, fluctuated hourly. Some changes were by more than half of one per cent.

The discount on the U.S. dollar fell to as little as 11-16 of one per cent from an opening quote of 15-32 per cent at the day's opening.

The pound sterling gained in terms of the Canadian dollar, to $2.76 1/2 from an opening quote of $2.75 1/2.

Gromyko Blames U.S. for Delay

GENEVA (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today bitterly accused the United States of blocking a neutrality agreement on Laos and seeking "unrealistic" control powers.

Gromyko, in a blistering address to the 14-nation Laos conference, said the United States was holding up work on drafting a neutrality and independence pact for the Southeast Asian kingdom.

"One cannot sit indefinitely on the shores of Lake Geneva counting swans," Gromyko said sarcastically. "Such a danger exists if the United States and some other delegates continue to boycott the work of the conference."

Gromyko's blast came after a spokesman for the Communist-backed Pathet Lao rebels set the stage for possibly endless debate over the meaning of "neutrality" by attacking the American plan to neutralize Laos.

Pathet Lao delegation leader Thao Phum Vongvichit told the 14-nation conference on the future of Laos that the U.S. definition of neutrality "means interference" in the internal affairs of Laos.

He added that the Soviet plan is the only one "that takes into account the aspirations of the Laos people."

COYNE CASE REASON FOR BUDGET DELAY

'Monetary Policy Dispute'

By TOM GOULD

Times' Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—The Conservative government has demanded the resignation of Bank of Canada Governor James E. Coyne in a fundamental dispute over monetary policy.

The dispute is the reason the budget has been held up for weeks.

This was learned today from official sources in the wake of Mr. Coyne's disclosure the government has asked for his resignation.

The government decided to fire the governor on a matter completely divorced from the main conflict—namely changes in Bank of Canada pension plan arrangements.

In view of Mr. Coyne's refusal to resign "quietly" the cabinet will have to decide whether to fire him. Under the Bank Act, he holds office at the pleasure of the cabinet.

The entire issue is expected to precipitate a major debate in the House of Commons.

The conflict, according to a reliable informant, stems from the government's decision to try "easy money" as a way out of Canada's nagging recession.

Mr. Coyne refused to accede. Some indication of the government's thinking can be determined from his last public speech—one of dozens he has made over the past two years.

It was made Monday to the Quebec Chamber of Commerce.

In it, Mr. Coyne said that "Much of the discussion of proponents of more and easier money seems to proceed on the assumption that there has been no expansion of the money supply whatsoever."

"In actual fact, we have had a significant increase over the past year. The total money supply in May averaged more than five per cent above the level of May, 1960. In the case of the privately-held money supply, that is, excluding deposits held by the government, the increase has been more than 7 per cent.

"In each case the increase in Canada has been greater than the corresponding degree of monetary expansion in the United States."

At the time he made this speech, Mr. Coyne already held the letter demanding his resignation. As though to set the battleground in advance of the battle, he had this to say:

"The minister of finance, speaking in Brantford on Jan. 12 last, noted that the Canadian banking system had added to its liquidity in 1960, and said that it is in a position to do so."

Algeria Talks Strike New Snag

Lack of Give-and-Take Policy Blamed For Stalemate; New Violence Reported

EVIAN, France (Reuters) — Talks between the French and Algerian insurgents to end the 6½-year Algerian war resumed here today amid reports from informed sources that the conference would be adjourned.

French and Tunis-based insurgent teams sat down at the conference table after a weekend recess for a session that had been expected to bring the first hard bargaining in the three-week-old talks.

But sources close to the French delegation said today's full session was expected to be one of the last for the time being.

No progress has been made in the talks to date, the sources said.

VIOLENCE CONTINUES
The weekend recess was marked by the worst violence since the talks began May 20.

At least 17 persons were killed in Algeria during the weekend and an estimated 50 persons were injured. Most of the dead were victims of Moslem insurgents.

Monday, six persons were killed and nine injured in a new outbreak of gun, bomb and knife attacks in Algeria. After the riots in Oran, Moslem mobs paraded through the streets howling "De Gaulle to the gallows."

In Paris early today, at least 19 persons were injured when an explosion badly damaged a hotel inhabited by Moslems and Africans, police reported.

The big problems in the talks between French negotiators and a delegation from the Algerian rebel provisional government in this alpine resort town was how to get down to a give-and-take basis.

BOTH SIDES ADAMANT
Up to now both sides have stood pat on their first positions on the issues concerning Algerian self-determination.

A major stumbling block in the negotiations has been the future of the oil-rich Sahara Desert. The insurgents regard it as an integral part of an independent Algeria which must be included in any self-determination referendum in the territory.

But the French, who have administered the Sahara separately from Algeria since 1957, have so far been adamant on treating it separately.

Adlai Has Friendly Talks With Last S.A. Dictator

By MAX HARRISON

ASUNCION (AP) — Adlai Stevenson today flies on to Chile after an overnight stop in Paraguay, South America's only dictatorship.

Touring South America as President Kennedy's special envoy, the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations came to Paraguay after issuing a blast at dictators. But his meeting with Paraguay President Alfredo Stroessner, considered the continent's only remaining dictator, was friendly and unstrained.

Their talk was brief and details were not disclosed. But the Paraguayan government is known as one of the Americas' strongest supporters of U.S. policy.

Leaving Rio de Janeiro Monday, Stevenson told reporters "We in the Americas don't like dictatorship." Asked why he was going to Paraguay, he replied his trip "was not arranged through personal preference but to visit all 10 capitals in South America."

WARM WELCOME

In Asuncion, Stevenson received the warmest public welcome of his tour, now at the halfway point. About 1,000 persons greeted him at the airport. For several days the government radio had urged a big turnout for Kennedy's representative.

Missing Helicopter Found Safe in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A helicopter reported missing with three men aboard turned up safely Monday in interior British Columbia.

The craft was sighted intact in a pasture and the helicopter company was to bring all three men out.

Stevenson's brief airport speech was marked by the absence of any mention of President Stroessner. At his previous stops Stevenson not only mentioned the local presidents but praised them for their contributions to freedom and democracy.

He referred to the fact that Paraguay and the U.S. have different views of political systems. But the audience did not hear these words in Spanish because the interpreter read from an earlier draft that did not include the sentence.

PHONEY CENSUS TAKERS REPORTED ON MAINLAND

VANCOUVER (CP) — Several phoney census takers have been reported on the Lower Mainland.

Robert Kincade, Regional Statistics Officer, said today one incident in Vancouver involved a man and woman who asked a number of obscene questions at a hotel.

He said shady sales firms sometimes use the census approach to compile "sucker" lists.

Phoney census takers could be arrested on charges ranging from impersonation to conspiracy.

"They'll be thrown into court so fast it'll make their heads spin," Mr. Kincade said.

Johnson's Program Draws Blast by Reds

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's is on tour of Communist states.

Premier Chou En-lai and Premier Pham Van Dong of Communist North Viet Nam have accused the United States of aggression and intervention in South Viet Nam, the New China news agency reported today.

The two attended a Peking reception Monday in honor of the Vietnamese premier, who

Chou charged that the program announced by U.S. Vice-President Lyndon Johnson and South Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem last month "is a plan preparing to embark on war adventure in South Viet Nam."

AIMED AT COMMUNISTS
The joint communique announced by Johnson and Diem a month ago, however, said the program is aimed to stop the Communist drive to overthrow the Diem government by terrorism and infiltration.

It calls for more powerful American military and economic aid to South Viet Nam.

The Vietnamese premier strongly condemned U.S. imperialism for its violation of the Geneva agreements, its stepping up of aggression and intervention and preparations for war in the southern part of Viet Nam, the New China agency said.

Chou said the Vienna summit meeting "once again attested the sincere desire of the Soviet government to safeguard world peace."

COUNTY JAIL BECOMES OVERCROWDED 'Riders' Go to State Pen

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Hinds County sheriff J. R. Gilfoyle, whose jail is overcrowded with "Freedom Riders" had authority today to transfer them to the spacious 16,000-acre state penitentiary.

The authority was granted after a dozen more segregation-testers were convicted Monday to raise the total to 96 in city and county jails.

The arrests began May 24, three days before Diane Nash of Nashville, Tenn., co-ordinating secretary for the Nashville Student non-violent Movement, said the riders "plan to fill up the jail" in Jackson and Montgomery, Ala. Twenty-six others have paid fines or posted bond.

County board of supervisors said in their order that "by reason of such overcrowding, Hinds County is unable with its own facilities to provide necessary housing and work as required by statute for its prisoners."

The board said that at Parchman, the prison farm 150 miles northwest of Jackson, "adequate public work may be made available to them so they may lawfully receive credit for time spent in confinement."

So far, prisoners have been "sitting out" their fines at the rate of $3 a day. If transferred to Parchman, work on cotton or other crops could be provided. For some, late August and September cotton picking time would come before sentences were fulfilled.

Narcotics, Penal Reform Rushed Through Commons
(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — The Commons gave legislative voice Monday night to the government's new approach to penal reform and the narcotics problem.

In less than 90 minutes passage was given to the three final stages of a Penitentiaries Act revision which, said Justice Minister Fulton, gives form and substance to the current drive for rehabilitation of convicts rather than sheer punishment.

Two hours of debate completed clause-by-clause study and final reading of the new Narcotics Control Act. Much of that time was consumed when two government backbenchers tried unsuccessfully to give the courts powers to impose the death penalty on drug traffickers.

In all, it was a highly productive day for which the MPs rewarded themselves by rising 13 minutes earlier than the regular 10.30 p.m. adjournment—a rare step in the chamber where time is precious.

Veterans Minister Churchill, government House leader, remarked that such progress could mean a June 30 wind-up of a Commons session that began last Nov. 17. Major item remaining is the 1961-62 budget which Finance Minister Fleming has said he hopes to bring down this month.

Other strides Monday included detailed study of all 41 clauses in amendments to the Canada Shipping Act and approval in the preliminary stages of these three government measures:

1. Amendments to the Farm Credit Act to increase the lending authorization of the Farm Credit Corporation to $300,000,000 from $200,000,000.

2. A Financial Administration Act involving largely government housekeeping, giving the finance minister power to buy and sell government-backed securities and to assign Crown debts owed under contracts.

3. Amendments to the Export Credits Insurance Act pumping another $200,000,000 into export credit—the fresh sum assigned to financing for deals beyond five years and the existing $200,000,000 confined to insuring credit deals extending five years after delivery.

Life Terms for Drug Peddling Stand

Monday's attempted amendment of the Narcotics Control Act was by John Drysdale (PC—Burnaby-Richmond) and Ferguson Browne (PC—Vancouver Kingsway), both Vancouver lawyers. Their amendment was defeated 44 to 8 on a vote that crossed party lines.

Thus the House adopted the original government proposal of increasing the maximum term for trafficking to life imprisonment from the present 44 years. Mr. Drysdale said life isn't enough—specially for non-addict traffickers who seek only profit.

Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) proposed, without moving a formal amendment, that the government provide in its program a provision for voluntary treatment of drug addicts.

As subsequently passed, the Narcotics Act gives the courts power to bypass the trial of a person charged with drug possession, smuggling or trafficking. Instead, if a medical examination proved the accused to be an addict, he could be sent to custody for treatment.

Revision to the Penitentiaries Act was a long time coming. The last consolidation of the act was in 1883, in the days of Sir John A. Macdonald, and while there have been amendments there has been no full-scale revision since then.

Mr. Fulton explained that one major new provision gives Ottawa authority to make agreements under which the federal prison system would take over from the provinces the responsibility for those sentenced to more than six months. At present, only those sentenced to two years or more are sent to federal prisons.

'Propaganda' Draws Rebuke For General

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army Monday rebuked Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker for labelling as pink or Communist former president Truman, other leading Democrats, and segments of the U.S. press and radio-TV industries.

Announcing findings of an investigation ordered by President Kennedy, the army said the 24th Infantry Division's troop information program put into effect by Walker "was not attributable to any program of the John Birch Society."

Charges that Walker had subjected troops of his command in Europe to propaganda from the militantly conservative Birch Society touched off the inquiry.

Along with rebuking Walker, the army cancelled his pending assignment to command the 8th Corps at Austin, Tex.

The investigation arose from charges published by the Overseas Weekly, a privately-owned tabloid newspaper widely read by U.S. servicemen in Europe.

Walker denied the paper's charges and called the Overseas Weekly unscrupulous.

Kennedy, Pearson Agree On New Concept of NATO

WASHINGTON (CP)—Lester B. Pearson and President Kennedy conferred Monday touching on the Canadian Liberal leader's suggestions for North Atlantic unity and general prospects for world peace.

"The Canadian opposition leader said later "we had a good talk and the president expressed a need for strengthening NATO."

"The president also spoke of his trip to Vienna and his meeting with the Soviet premier, Nikita Khrushchev, and I can tell you we are indeed in for a long period of cold war," Pearson added in an interview.

Earlier Pearson proposed that the NATO council be turned into an international cabinet of the 15-member countries, empowered to coordinate and unify their foreign policies.

Speaking before a conference of United States mayors, Pearson suggested the NATO council should become "a political general staff for the Atlantic alliance."

The Vienna conference between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev, he said, indicated the East-West cold war will continue for a long time and confirmed the "absolute necessity" of strengthening the Atlantic alliance.

Old concepts and ideas must be discarded with members of the coalition moving towards closer association politically and economically, including elimination of cross-Atlantic trade restrictions.

Touching on Canada-United States relations, Pearson said the majority of Canadians are neutralists.

His own party believes, however, that it would be a mistake for Canada to join the ranks of nuclear powers "by manufacturing or accepting nuclear weapons for her forces".

When all the claims for tire mileage, safety, strength and performance have been heard, one single fact stands out for thoughtful drivers:

More people ride on Goodyear tires than on any other kind.

This is true in 1961, as it has been for the last 46 consecutive years. Why do so many people choose Goodyear tires? Because year after year Goodyear has never forgotten the meaning of the word "value".

Goodyear's position as the largest tire company has always been built on the plain, common-sense philosophy of giving people their money's worth... and then some.

This is made possible only by a continuing test and development program. On police cars, test fleets, taxicabs and in laboratory analysis Goodyear tires invariably lead in mileage, strength and safety.

For example, in a recent Durability Test (miles-to-failure) between a Goodyear and three other brands in the same price class, the Goodyear proved to be 10% stronger than Brand A, 25% stronger than Brand B, and over 90% stronger than Brand C.

Think about Goodyear value when choosing new tires.

The chances are you will agree with the majority of Canadian drivers. And most car manufacturers too. Goodyear tires, whether for imported or North American cars, offer better value than any other kind.

There is a difference in tires. Visit your Goodyear dealer this week. He has a size to fit your car.

The Bigger Bomb

FROM ITS FIRST APPEARANCE on this earth to the present day the human race has grown in numbers to three billion. But in the next 39 years the race will double. By the year 2,000 A.D. the world population will stand at six billion. These are some of the figures presented to a recent international conference of experts who see in them the chief danger to our civilization.

Mr. Marriner Eccles, the distinguished American economist and former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, describes such figures as the "most vitally important problem facing the world today... more explosive than the atomic or hydrogen bomb."

No doubt that is true. If the world is crowded in most places today, and will double its population in the short space of some four decades, what will happen as this rate of increase continues?

We can judge the consequences from one fact, among others: If Asia is merely to maintain its present pitiable standard of living, with a per capita income of $50 per year, it must increase its production by 60 per cent between now and 1975, and then by 75 per cent more between 1975 and 2,000.

With the best possible management, and massive foreign aid, these goals probably are far beyond Asia's reach. The same sort of insoluble problem faces other parts of the world like Africa in varying degrees. Unless the population explosion can be arrested humanity's prospects are bleak, almost hopeless and its crisis will occur not in some remote future but within the span of many people now living.

Certainly much can be done to feed the world's people by the increasing efficiency of agriculture, by the use of foodstuffs from the sea, by new chemical processes still to be invented. But even if an exploding population can somehow get enough to eat, the tensions between the poor areas and the relatively rich, the struggle for living room, will assure perpetual small wars that can erupt at any moment into the last big war. Compared with these quarrels between hungry peoples the frictions of today will appear minor.

There is, as The New York Times says, only one solution to the supreme problem of our species and that is to curb human fertility. "Otherwise," The Times warns, "the misery, starvation and hopelessness of many billions of the world's population will inevitably lead to chaos. The bottleneck in the way of acceptance of birth control cannot be attributed, as is generally believed, to the Catholic Church. In Asia and Africa, where the population increase is most explosive, Catholics constitute but 3 per cent of the population."

Japan has proved that even in crowded Asia this problem can be solved. The Japanese population will rise somewhat during the next decade and then permanently level off or begin to fall. Will other Asiatic nations follow Japan's example before it is too late?

They must decide this question for themselves but, as The Times observes, the Western nations can help them with scientific information. A commission of American experts suggested some time ago that the United States assist friendly peoples in population planning at their request.

"In this way," says The Times, "we could give needed help to our friends in Asia, Africa and Latin America to curb their explosive populations—help that now can be given only inadequately by private organizations."

The hour is very late and whatever happens to our nuclear weapons the bomb of fertility ticks faster every year.

The Anti-American Tactic Falls Flat

THE CCF-New Party appears determined to exploit to the fullest the latent anti-American sentiment that exists in Canada. Its policy-makers, trying to take a page out of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's campaign book of 1957 and 1958, are pouring it on at every opportunity.

But every report indicates the tactic is failing flat as yesterday's pancakes. Saskatchewan Premier T. C. (Tommy) Douglas started it in Victoria, during the Esquimalt-Saanich by-election, with a speech ripping into the U.S. The next day, federal politicians were remarking that Douglas had killed whatever chance the New Party candidate may have had in the riding.

Mr. Douglas, of course, is number one candidate for leadership of the New Party. CCF leader Hazen Argue was not to be outdone by Premier Douglas. He is number two candidate for the party leadership. During the recent little spat over grain moving equipment for ships taking Canadian wheat to Red China, Mr. Argue was the only party leader in the House to criticize the U.S. for exercising its right to control the commercial activities of its own citizens.

Both Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal leader Pearson discussed the matter with restraint. Mr. Pearson said that "we have enough real problems between our two countries at the present time to do our best to avoid the manufacture of issues of this kind." And the House applauded his statement.

Only time and a general election will tell how successful the New Party will be on the strength of its approach to the U.S. But there is every sign anti-Americanism has, for a time, lost impetus in Canada.

There are probably two major reasons: A growing realization on the part of Canadians that the U.S. is still our best friend in a troubled world, and the change of administration in Washington that brought with it new hope for the Western world.

A Conservative politician, talking of the New Party's apparent anti-American bias, expressed the opinion Douglas and Argue are "about four years behind the times."

"It worked for us in the past two elections because Canadians were worried about Dulles and brinkmanship, and concerned at the lack of Western leadership provided by Eisenhower, who seemed to spend half his time in a hospital bed and the other half on a golf course. But that's all over now."

You won't hear the PM talking the way he did in 1958 for a long time.

The prime minister has skillfully turned the corner in his approach to Canadian-U.S. relations. Instead of a negative, anti-U.S. approach, he is now taking a positive, pro-Canadian approach. The difference may be subtle, but he is very adept at turning corners.

The Liberal party has never been emotionally anti-American. Mr. Pearson's concern has been that Canada would use up its credit of goodwill in Washington by screaming hysterically at the slightest provocation. He is more inclined to overlook the minor issues and concentrate on the resolution, in neighborly discussion, of the serious economic and social conflicts inevitable between close friends.

Politicians here are at a complete loss to understand Premier Douglas' choice of Victoria as the scene for a speech clobbering the United States. Victoria has traditional ties with the United States, and frequent cross-strait visits between the people of Victoria and those on the U.S. mainland have made them stronger over the years.

His speech is considered a serious miscalculation, and evident of what many have been saying: that Mr. Douglas has been out of the federal arena too long to make a good national party leader.

I Love (Hate) the Fountain Because . . .

No Mud Pies

Whatever one's opinions regarding the proposed new fountain, one can at least recognize the figures to be depicted thereon. It is to be hoped that no modern surrealist sculptors will be allowed to perpetrate their miracles of appalling ugliness. Shapeless lumps of concrete and hunks of clay in dreadful caricature of the human form make such of us who can and do enjoy things as nature fashioned them turn away.

A chunk of masonry from a house wreckers' yard would have more to it, for at least at one time it was a part of something useful. We already have in Victoria a perfectly good fountain and $45,000 seems an awful lot to pay for something we don't need. However that is decided, one way or the other, let us have something one can at least recognize. It reminds one of the old saying: "Tell me what it is and you can have it." If these futurists and sculptors of nightmares feel the urge to make mud pies I hope they'll keep such distressing things in their own backyards.

MRS. L. F. HEYWOOD.

Lacks Unity

At least one person has been quoted in the press as saying the only criticism of the proposed fountain comes from the "avant garde" and the way-out artistic types.

I think it is interesting in this connection to note that when a picture of the fountain model was shown to a high school class, a gratifying number of the students, on the basis of the knowledge and judgment of art which they have acquired in the course of their school work, answered to the effect: "This design lacks unity. It is not a good design."

Our Coins in That Fountain

In view of the fact that a large sum of our money is being spent on our behalf, I, personally, as an architect and as a lover of fountains, wish to register my disappointment at the design of the Centennial Fountain.

While not in any way wishing to detract from the reputation of the draftsman, it is difficult to understand how a work of art could be created in this manner. The present description gives no hint as to how this is to be achieved.

Strangely enough, fountains are for water (generally) and so far, no mention has been made as to how this delightful medium will be employed, nor have the fountain fighters taken up their cudgels regarding this.

A spokesman has said it is supposed to be "a fountain and not a work of art" and we, therefore, are only left with one fact to be demonstrated.

It is to be hoped that the play of water will be amusing or interesting or dramatic or, happily, all of these things, but it is sad that with this large sum of money and in this most memorable dedication, we are unable to employ one of the great sculptors; if we are not able to give any sculptor in British Columbia, and less famous thereby, a chance to prove himself.

In any case, we can hope that visitors will come to see our fountain, will be delighted by it and will come again, as they do to see the fountains of Rome, Versailles, Tivoli, and countless other places where fountains are things of beauty and excitement.

Recognizable

The people who are likely to see a fountain at the Parliament Buildings are usually not artists. Art in connection with that location should be what all normal people can understand. Most people are able to understand and accept realism. So art in connection with the Parliament Buildings should be realistic.

Semi-abstract art can be done with ideas affecting the subconscious mind of the observer in such a way, that, later, when the observer may be aroused he may be caused to commit harmful actions foreign to himself, depending of course upon circumstances. Therefore it is important that art for the government is realistic so that all may know it is not harmful. That is more important than a spectacular display by an internationally-known artist or by a skillful technician who may wish to harm the country and have his work passed by juries because of clever handling.

Mr. Savery's design seems suitable from this point of view. It is not a version of egotistical ideas searching for prominence. It is a relief to see animals portrayed as animals and birds as birds in a location that is prominent and permanent. I feel that the government has done well to make this decision.

Rising Death-Toll

By MICHAEL MOYNIHAN

THERE will be no "one for the road" on Britain's motorways. The government's decision this week to ban the sale of alcohol along the 72-mile stretch of the M1 highway—and the other 700 miles of planned motorways—underscores public concern on the rising death-toll paid annually for use of the Queen's Highway.

Last year 6,970 were killed and 84,463 seriously injured. Lord Chesham, parliamentary secretary to the minister of transport, has assessed that, at the present rate of car carnage—the 1960s could see one million dead or seriously injured, three million less seriously injured, and 20 million lucky to have escaped unhurt.

Alcohol, it is widely recognized has been a greater contributory factor than official statistics have shown (only 432 of last year's killed and seriously injured were ascribed as victims of drink). The stamping out of drunken driving is a major aim of the Road Traffic Bill, now at the report stage in the House of Lords.

The bill will introduce blood and urine tests to help courts in their judgment of cases ("Breathalysers" will not be used until their accuracy has been more satisfactorily confirmed), stiffer jail sentences and fines, and make disqualification automatic and for longer periods.

There has been fierce opposition to the introduction of scientific tests in both Houses, mainly on the grounds that they are not conclusive proof of dangerous driving. This week the Earl of Arran, following private tests on himself, went to Scotland Yard to drink a quarter-bottle of Scotch whisky—having had no alcohol for 20 hours.

The police rating, he told his fellow peers, showed he was not incapable of being in proper care of a motor vehicle. But he added: "A woman or young person less accustomed to alcohol than myself would be unsafe after half that quantity."

His conclusion, after hearing "the unemotional testimony of unemotional men" at the Yard, was that no one should be allowed to drive after drinking any alcohol at all.

Police Victims

"When constabulary duty's to be done . . . A policeman's lot is not a happy one . . ."

A shooting incident in a quiet Victorian street in East London in which three policemen were shot, two fatally, and another incident in Newcastle, in which a bank manager was shot dead and a policeman seriously wounded, have put a sting into W. S. Gilbert's lines, from which many British consciences are smarting.

"It was just like a television gangster serial—it didn't seem real" said a housewife who saw the London shooting.

To the average citizen the "Bobby" only becomes "real" when he puts down a heavy foot in such harmless transgressions as parking in the wrong place, helping a lamp-post to stay upright—or squatting in Whitehall in the cause of nuclear disarmament.

Last Saturday's London shooting was the heaviest toll of police in a single incident since three policemen were killed and two injured in an East End shooting affray in 1910. It spotlights the grim battle being waged by an under-strength force against a mounting wave of violent crime.

Pest Number One

In Nurseryland he goes by many endearing names—Bunny Rabbit, Peter Rabbit, Brer Rabbit. To the Ministry of Agriculture he is still Pest Number One.

This week the first prosecution under the Pests Act of 1954 was taken against the owners of land at Haywards Heath, Sussex, for failing to take all necessary steps to wipe out their rabbit population. It was stated that five men from the ministry, after a day scouring 20 acres of woodland with 10 dogs, shot 14 rabbits, filled 280 rabbit holes with poison gas, and sealed them off.

Before myxomatosis in the mid-fifties killed off most of Britain's estimated 100 million rabbits, at least £50 million damage a year was caused to crops, grassland and woods. Today there are believed to be pockets of rabbits in most counties.

The prosecuted owners, who were fined £40 with £10 10s. costs, pleaded they had done sufficient to keep the rabbits down—and that they "disliked having poison on their land." Certainly the picture they gave of the men from the ministry "trampling down daffodils, bluebells and ornamental shrubs, and scaring away pheasant and partridge" was never envisaged by Beatrice Potter. (London Observer Service)

June 13, 1921 — The board of city police commissioners tabled a letter decrying the immorality of public dress on the beach. The letter-writer also mentioned the poor quality of dress on the streets of Victoria.

Duncan Backs the Hospital

THE PEOPLE OF DUNCAN and surrounding districts have overwhelmingly endorsed plans for a modern $3,635,586 hospital.

It now remains for the councils of the respective municipalities to approve the bylaw under which the property-owners will meet their share of the cost. This action should be nothing more than a formality.

The point is made that a majority of the North Cowichan council has opposed the arrangement. It is suggested that an adverse decision by that majority on final bylaw readings could kill the project.

This is a nice legal issue, but scarcely a practical consideration. When the qualified voters of a district support a project with an 85.6 per cent favorable vote, their representatives on the council have very authoritative instructions.

After the Grievous Stage

THE CONGO PROBLEM SEEMS to have slipped out of the headlines lately, under pressure from stirring events in Laos, Vienna and other places. There is reason for hope, however, that the apparent quietness in The Congo is a matter of fact as well as of news coverage.

Mr. Hammarskjöld announces that he believes "the grievous stage" has passed. This belief is based on a constructive trend he now sees in Congolese affairs which stems from a new agreement between President Kasavubu and the United Nations regarding finances, and a new willingness on the part of native leaders to "co-operate and go ahead."

Although Mr. Hammarskjöld makes these comments with full knowledge that the unexpected may happen and throw the country again into chaos, it could well be that the wildness and disorder that were the aftermath of independence have largely spent themselves and the hard realities of operating an organized community have been impressed on the warring factions.

The proof of this pudding may be found in the meeting of the Congolese parliament which is to be held "soon." If the rival leaders and their followers, having had their fling and found nothing but universal loss resulting, are now ready to sit down together, seek a workable compromise and put their country's welfare ahead of their own ambitions—then Mr. Hammarskjöld may be correct in speaking of the situation as "encouraging." Subject, of course, to the unexpected.

Exercise in Profanity

I STARTED to swear Saturday afternoon and I swore right up to dinner time, through the evening and until I retired at night. Sunday morning I picked up where I left off the night before and carried through all day.

Monday morning I began to laugh. It was a hard, cynical laugh, but there was an element of humor in the situation which had inspired my prolonged profanity.

Someone is converting the pretty, winding little country lane that gives access to my shack at Shawnigan, and to a half-dozen more, into a four-lane highway.

I swore because the natural growth that lined the old road has been laid waste. Fine trees have been cut down and sawed into stove-lengths. The temporary, I hope, clutter of logging and bulldozing has made hideous an attractive way through the forest. There are no bends and twists in the lower section of the road now. It runs straight as a string to the back of our lots.

I asked the neighbors on each side of me what they thought of it. They were unanimous. They didn't like it.

In the near future I expect to see the surface black-topped and curbs installed. Then we ought to have a traffic light to prevent any of the half-dozen families the new highway serves from running into one another.

This is progress. This is the gift of the present age to the people who pay the bills. It doesn't seem to matter much that we didn't want it, that we were happier traveling over a country road, that we actually go up to Shawnigan to get into the country and enjoy the woody atmosphere.

No sir, Big Brother with a bulldozer knows best. We'll take what he decides and like it.

And yet: Perhaps Big Brother has over-reached himself. He can dismiss as sentimental twaddle the affection we had for the old road. It bore, in memory, the footprints of children growing up. It led to Mossy Rock where a little one could go, picking his or her way between saplings to emerge onto a moss-covered plateau blanketed with forget-me-nots and wild thyme.

In hot summer, the dust puffed up between the toes of small bare feet, and in the morning held the prints of deer that had crossed it at night to drink from the lake. In the evening it was a serene short walk for older folk, sauntering in a communion of silence broken only by pleased comment on the line of a tree, the cool shadow of a glade seen between trunks.

An older person remembers hours spent on the original private road, digging out rocks, trimming back growth, before Big Brother tricked the property owner out of a public road allowance without compensation. We drove in low gear in those days, skirting boulders too heavy to move. Now we watch "progress" widen and straighten the stretch—and weep inwardly.

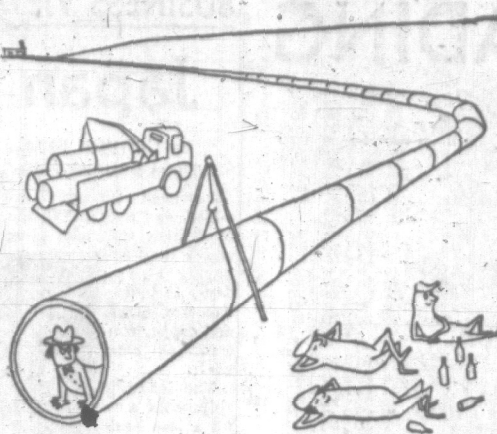

So I swore. Now I laugh cynically. Why? Because Big Brother, a province that goes periodically to Ottawa crying for more money, has so much wealth that it can afford to throw dollars away on a road that isn't wanted. I laugh because a province that claims to be debt free and has put a half-billion-dollar load on the back of all of us in British Columbia, is piling on just a little more.

I laugh because the by-election was held a week before Big Brother started to build the new highway in the woods. Is he so seized with the idea that roads win votes that he can't check himself after the votes have been counted and he received a minority?

Of course I should reconcile myself to the fact that this is progress. And progress is a bulldozer flattening out a sylvan byway. Now let's have a few roadside billboards advertising merchandise and telling us who to vote for.

U.K. Won't Tolerate Trade Gap With U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Frederick J. Erroll, Britain's minister of state of the board of trade, said Monday Britain cannot long tolerate the $500,000,000 gap in its trade with the United States.

He arrived for talks with commerce secretary Luther Hodges, maritime and transport department officials on the "fly-American," "ship-American" and other "buy American" policies which he said are cutting into Britain's share of trade with the U.S.

Erroll told a press conference he would also like to see an expansion of American purchases of British consumer goods, including textiles and pottery, electrical equipment and specialized machinery to help close the trade gap.

He plans to go to Winnipeg later to start a tour of Canada's Prairie provinces to encourage trade with Britain. No date for his Canadian tour was disclosed.

Students Regard Religion Lightly

TORONTO (CP)—Most Canadian university students regard religion as an "unwarranted, parasitic, cultural hangover," Rev. J. A. Ross, dean of St. Andrew's Hall at the University of British Columbia, said Monday night.

Speaking to the 87th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Dr. Ross said university students today are unexcited, pessimistic and unmoved by enthusiasm for anything.

"They are committed only to non-committal ... and look upon the church as an aged relative having some vague claim upon them but mostly as a nuisance. They have no hope or rebellion in them; they dress alike, talk alike and look alike; they are nice people, expertly polite."

The Christian church of today, said Dr. Ross, does not deal with the student's real world but with relics of the past and vague hopes for the future.

"Students know you can't prove the existence of God," he said. "They will listen to artists and novelists but not the church."

And the trouble is—dentists are not trained overnight. It takes at least six years of intensive University study to become a dentist. Although the University of British Columbia does not as yet have a Dental Faculty, there are several excellent schools in Canada to provide such training. B.C. dentists have a big job on their hands. IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

POLITICAL EFFECTS

By JOHN GRIFFIN

Viet Nam Faces Famine

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Communist North Viet Nam is suffering a severe food shortage that may parallel the one in Red China. It could have important political implications.

The government of anti-Communist South Viet Nam is having a propaganda field day pointing out the trouble in the north. Posters and radio broadcasts tell of "famine" in the "paradise" the Communists claim to have created in the north.

Relief committees "for famine victims in North Viet Nam" are conducting fund drives although it seems certain the hostile north never would accept aid from the south.

Western experts are not ready to proclaim North Viet Nam's trouble a full-fledged famine with mass starvation.

"Still there is a food shortage—and it has been very severe judging by a variety of reliable sources," says one.

The harvest is coming in, but whether it will mean recovery or just temporary relief is uncertain.

The food shortage presents a variety of problems to North Viet Nam, a young country that is providing its own distinctive kind of "foreign aid" to rebel movements in Laos and South Viet Nam.

Uppermost is the problem of feeding a population that has increased to some 16,000,000 people.

But the food problem apparently also has built up rural resentment against the co-operative movement—a step far behind Red China's commune system.

Press reports tell of hoarding food and trying to sell it on the market instead of through the co-operatives.

The food problem also could have a serious impact on North Viet Nam's efforts to further its already substantial industrial development.

HOME GARDEN

Soaking Can Kill Sweet Peas

The seeds of some colors of sweet peas have much harder shells, or coats, than others. This is to protect the inside from moisture because it rots easily.

Generations ago some bright gardener conceived the idea of soaking the seeds to soften the coats so that all colors would germinate at the same time, and the practice has continued until this day.

The sweet pea specialists have found that soaking is not the best treatment because of the possibility of getting enough moisture under the coat to rot the germ.

SMALL NICK

Their preference is to make a small nick with a sharp knife in the seeds of the harder coated varieties, or to reduce the thickness of the coats by rubbing with coarse sandpaper.

When the seeds are soaked it is never wise to extend the treatment beyond overnight, or about eight hours, and even this may be too much for some colors.

This year we have received numerous reports from home gardeners that sweet pea seeds have failed to germinate or only a few had germinated.

PATTERN SHOWED

At first it seemed unusual that so many should have had the same experience, but a pattern began to show up before long.

In each instance the seed had been soaked, sometimes for as long as 24 to 30 hours. This, of course, is much too long, and the seeds which managed to germinate were probably those with the hardest coats.

If you had trouble, try chipping instead of soaking next year, and you may find the results much better.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"I probably won't be allowed in Ireland," said Johnny Burke, whose "Donnybrook" songs you've been hearing everywhere.

"Sure, and why not, me bye?" (I was exaggerating my own faint Irish strain.)

"Because I quit drinking," Johnny Burke said, "oh, a long time ago."

Johnny has written about a drinking, quarreling, fighting, loving, hell-raising set of Irish—of a priest who'll fight and take a drink. When a few Irish object to this picture of the Irish, Johnny Burke looks across his penthouse study, at the Oscar he won in 1942 for "Swingin' On a Star," and softly asks:

"What do they say about Bernard Shaw and Sean O'Casey? I don't think O'Casey ever had a clean-shaven, clean-bathed person in his plays."

PRIEST LOVED IT
A Jesuit priest stayed frequently with Johnny while he was writing both words and music—and loved the show.

and Johnny keeps remembering another priest a long time ago who was told he couldn't build a church in the north-west.

"These big lumberjacks were going to run him out," Johnny remembers affectionately. "He took off his coat and his collar, and he kicked hell out of them. Of course they didn't realize he'd been a boxing champion."

RESEARCH
That was a Fr. Kevin Curtis, for whom Johnny's son Kevin is named. That priest was also a model for the unconventional priest in Bing Crosby's "Going My Way."

"I've done lots of research," Johnny said—fingering the pages of the "Collected Poems of Oliver St. John Gogarty," reading quietly from it.

"I was brought up in Chicago near that saloon Peter Finley Dunne used to write about," he laughed, "though my father hung out in another saloon called O'Minsky's."

Johnny, long known as lyricist, wrote both words and music for the Eddie Foy-Susan Johnson show. Yes, he's been tempted to celebrate in the good old Irish way.

"I remember a drinking contest," he said. "Foots-Shot told me, if I ever got in one, to drink brandy—it'd keep you awake."

"The other three chose scotch. They said I was crazy when I took brandy. Half way through, I helped one guy to bed. They all passed out—and I only drank three-fourths of the bottle."

Johnny Burke smiled. "That was when I was really Irish," he said.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Tuffy Tuttle explained that she has what it takes to wear the latest styles—a wealthy boy friend.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Daytime TV is wonderful—it keeps a lot of women at home who might otherwise be out driving.

EARL'S PEARLS: There's absolutely nothing like a good, home-cooked meal—not in most homes, anyway.

Joey Adams asked his friend, a harassed husband, what he and his wife are always fighting about.

"I don't know," the guy sighed, "—she won't tell me." That's earl, brother.

FAIREST—Rigmor Trengreid, of Bergen, is this year's Miss Norway winner. She's a 19-year-old hairdresser.

CEILING of 16,000 feet has been set by doctors for Sir Edmund Hillary, of Everest fame. The 41-year-old New Zealander was told not to climb above this height after he suffered a cerebral attack while attempting to ascend 17,790-foot Mount Mijaku.

Snake Used as Club

LONDON (AP)—Hugh Bonnar, an Irishman, was fined £2 ($5.60) Monday for walking down a street hitting people over the head with a snake three feet, six inches long. The arresting officer said Bonnar, accused of drunkenness, had just bought the snake from a pet shop. The reptile was dead by the time the patrolman arrested its owner.

12 INJURED, SHE WEEPS

Enthusiastic Irish Upset Grace, Ranier

DUBLIN, Ireland (Reuters)—A weeping and upset Princess Grace of Monaco was escorted into a hotel here Monday night after wild crowd scenes greeted the former Hollywood movie star and her husband, Prince Ranier of Monaco, as they arrived for a banquet.

Twelve persons were taken to hospital after being injured in the surging crowd of 20,000 enthusiastic Dubliners as they mobbed the entrance to the hotel and tied up traffic.

Police were swept aside by the crowd which surrounded the royal couple's car for 20 minutes.

Princess Grace, the former Grace Kelly, had to rest for 30 minutes after being rescued from the crowd before putting in an appearance at the banquet, given in connection with the international music festival here.

Earlier in the day, a crowd of 2,000 excited women mobbed the couple as they left the Lord Mayor of Dublin's house after an official visit.

Only the quick work of a strong police guard enabled the couple, in the second day of their visit to the Irish Republic, to get to their car.

The Prince and Princess, first royal couple to visit the republic since it was formed in 1921, spent most of Monday touring housing establishments, hospitals and schools.

LONG, SHORT OF IT—These two pupils are the extremes in the first grade at St. Louis School in Custer, Ohio. The itty-bitsy gal is Theresa Flowers, 35 inches tall, and Mike Laue, four-feet six. Theresa is so tiny, she uses platforms under her desk and to reach the blackboards.

ask Andy
HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and the second question a Hammon, Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Ichiro Fujita, age 12, of Yokohama, Japan, for the question:

Why do beavers build dams?
Mr. Beaver is a warm-blooded, air-breathing mammal, clothed in a magnificent fur coat. But like the warm-blooded, air-breathing, fur-coated seals, he is built for a life in the water. The seals solve this problem by living in and around the watery sea. The busy beaver solves the same problem by building himself a dam across a stream which provides him with a reliable pool of water summer and winter.

A large beaver is about three feet long, plus another foot of wide, flat, scaly tail. He may weigh 30 to 50 pounds. But since he continues to grow and add weight all his life, a very old beaver may be four feet long and tip the scales at 100 pounds. He is a chubby fellow, and rather slow on his feet. In the forest, he is no match for the foxes, the wolves and the hungry cats. But in the water, he is safe. His nostrils and his ears are fitted with valves which close when he dives. His loose lips close over his big buck teeth and shut out the water, even when he is carrying branches in his mouth. His large back feet are webbed for swimming and his tail makes an excellent rudder to steer him and his burdens of wood.

The beaver home may be a burrow in the bank of a stream but it is more likely to be a lodge built right out in the pool. Here the furry fellows flee from their enemies and rest from their hours of toil. The parents and two to six kittens live, work and play together for almost two years. They are never far from home, always ready to plop into the water and dive out of sight. A beaver can swim a quarter mile under water in 15 minutes—without coming up for air. When trouble threatens, he dives in to an underwater tunnel which leads safely up to his home.

Make Full Use of Poplars

The youngsters learn to make full use of the nearby poplar trees which provide both food and building materials. They take turns at gnawing a trunk with their strong, chisel teeth. When the tree falls, they cut it into pieces. The family dines on the bark, which they peel from the tender twigs, and piles of these twigs are stored away for winter food. The logs are used to build the precious dam.

A beaver knows by instinct where to select the site. The whole family helps to tote the logs into the stream. There they are arranged to form a low wall which blocks the stream and traps the water in a pond several feet deep. The thick ends of the logs are placed side by side, facing the current of the stream. They are piled layer upon layer and the cracks in the dam wall are stuffed with mud and stones.

When the dam is built, there may be work to do on the wooden lodge. Otherwise the busy beaver will build another dam or maybe a series of canals as a safe waterway to link his home with a distant grove of poplars. Or he may work on repairs. He must keep a waterway open to his food supplies and he must keep his dam solid or the water will drain away and leave him stranded.

Andy sends a Hammon's Nature Atlas of America to Sheri Twombly, age 11, of Oromocto, N.B., for her question:

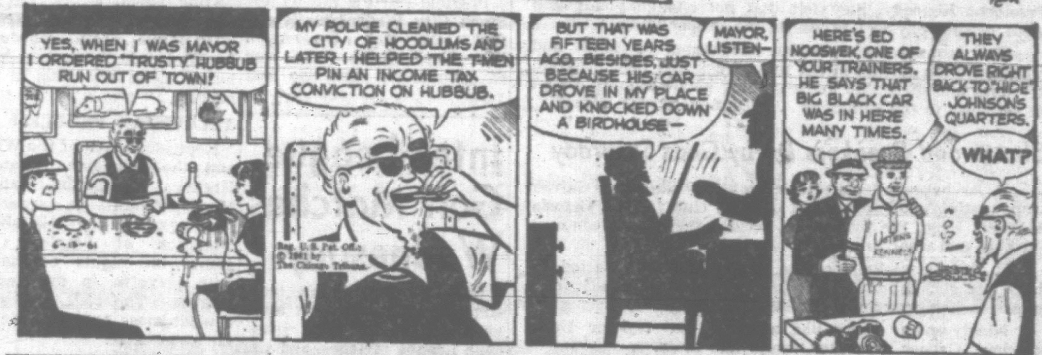

Why isn't all our oxygen used up?

Billions of plants and billions of animals dip into the world's supply of oxygen every single day. What's more, this has been going on for billions of years. And there is only so much oxygen in the atmosphere. But the scientists tell us that this oxygen remains more or less the same. This can only mean that a fresh supply is coming from somewhere. It is coming from the world of plants.

Every green plant uses the waste carbon dioxide which is returned to the air by other living things. And carbon dioxide is made from both carbon and oxygen. Plants use the carbon to make their food, but they do not need all of the oxygen. The surplus is returned to the air. Fresh oxygen is poured into the air by every green plant and wafted around the world.

'Not a Home Scorched' In All-Night Fire Fight

SEA CADETS' TURN TONIGHT

Sea Cadets of RSCC Rainbow will perform a sunset service on the lawns of the Legislative Buildings at about 8.30 tonight.

It will be their second of three flag-lowering services by the unit this summer.

Wednesday's service will be taken by 2136 Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) Cadets.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A fierce forest fire that sent women and children fleeing for the refuge of the sea as it threatened the logging communities of Hare Bay and Dover was brought under control today.

Not a home in the communities was so much as scorched. Women and children, who had spent the night crammed aboard four schooners anchored in Bonavista Bay, began returning to their homes.

The blaze was brought in check after a gallant 12-hour struggle by the men of Hare Bay and Dover, about 110 miles northwest of St. John's. Reports of their success came from Ed Ralph, chief forester at Hare Bay.

Mr. Ralph said a change in the wind prevented the flames from overrunning the community.

It was a close battle for several hours as the flames, feeding on stands of birch and fir, knifed their way to the edge of the communities. Hare Bay, which has about 1,200 residents, was virtually encircled by flames at one time.

An estimated 1,000 firefighters, most of them Hare Bay and Dover loggers, fought through the night.

Not all women and children went to the schooners. Many elderly persons refused to leave their homes.

Other persons, including many in Dover, with a population of 700, escaped by car. Dover is about two miles from Hare Bay.

Vancouver Praises Victoria!

Vancouver Community Chest Tuesday praised a proposal by Greater Victoria Community Welfare Council to stop juvenile delinquency before it starts.

R. D. J. Guy, president of the Vancouver organization, expressed strong support for the recommendation that more psychiatrists and psychologists be employed by the government. Also recommended was establishment of a central child rehabilitation service to co-ordinate correctional services provided for a child.

POLICY DEBATE

University Seen as Big Corporation

MONTREAL (CP)—Scholars from the opposite ends of Canada crossed swords Monday night at the Conference of Learned Societies on the question of who should run the nation's universities.

Prof. J. Gordon Kaplan of Dalhousie University, Halifax, said there is too much of "the atmosphere of a big corporation" around most Canadian universities and the academic community should participate in making university policy at the highest level.

SAFEGUARD

Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, said the predominance of a lay or non-academic board of governors is an essential safeguard for a university in Canada.

They were the two members of a panel discussing the theme at a session of the Canadian Association of University Teachers.

Prof. J. H. Atchison of Dalhousie University, panel chairman, said "university government cannot be left in the hands of those who know little or nothing of what higher education is all about."

Prof. Kaplan said the notion that "the business way is the right way" is deeply ingrained in North American educational systems.

"... It is therefore not surprising that the structure of the giant corporation has been imposed on the university."

Willis Named By New Travel Club

About 20 people interested in new vistas and faraway places banded together last week to form Victoria Travel Club.

First president George Willis said the club will meet regularly to see travel films, hold social and general interest meetings.

FOR PENSIONERS

The club, he said, will organize one major trip a year for members, and plan outings for old age pensioners and veterans.

Miss Shirley Reason is secretary and Bernard Sekreve is publicity director.

Next meeting will be held June 22 at 8 p.m. in the Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street.

Piaf Out of Danger

PARIS (AP)—Singer Edith Piaf was reported out of danger Monday in the American Hospital after surgery last Friday.

'Don't Fence Me In' Theme For New Band

Young accordion players will get a chance to make music in the great outdoors this summer with an accordion band that plans to hold some of its practise sessions on 100 acres of countryside on Kangaroo Road.

Music will be combined with nature activities and outdoor games.

To be eligible, accordion students must be over the age of 10 and have studied the accordion for at least one year. Inquiries should be addressed to the director, R. J. Berod, 94 Maddock Avenue, EV 5-8666.

Two Speeders Nabbed By Radar

Radar accounted for two convictions in Colwood RCMP court Monday.

Lorne Walter Thickett, 2845 Bryn-Maur, was fined $75 and prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for six months after conviction for criminally negligent driving.

RCMP said he was clocked by radar at 95 miles per hour on the Trans-Canada Highway. In the same court Donald Francis Egan, Castlegar, was fined $30 for exceeding 50 miles per hour.

He also was checked by the device which police have been using in the Colwood-Langford-Malahat area for the past two weeks.

Symphony Groups To Meet Monday

The Victoria Symphony Society and Victoria Symphony Foundation will hold their joint annual meeting on Monday at 8 p.m. in the Art Gallery, 1040 Moss Street.

Coast speaker will be Lloyd Fairclough, development manager of Victoria College. Annual committee reports will be heard.

DIVORCES

Divorces were granted in B.C. Supreme Court Monday to:

Robert Vivian McLeod, 1717 Lyall Street, Victoria, from Rosemarie McLeod, 230 Mary Street, Victoria. They were married here in 1953.

Rita Joan Moe, 1130 Lockley Road, Victoria, from Leif Moe, 714 Claremont Avenue, RR2, Royal Oak. They were married in Calgary, 1950.

Get Biggest Profit Top Business Maxim

MONTREAL (CP)—Economic and welfare goals in North America are so badly confused as to suggest the need for a new philosophy of business enterprise, Prof. Brian Dixon of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., said Monday at the Conference of Learned Societies.

The most valid philosophy, he said, "would appear to be one built on the concept of maximum profit."

Prof. Dixon said he is not envisioning business activity "inconsistent with the wide range of welfare and humanitarian actions rightly felt necessary today."

However, better results were achieved, he said, when businesses were made to produce as efficiently as possible and then, as a second step, society made "welfare decisions as to the distribution of the products."

NO REAL TEST

He said that if a business enterprise does not have maximum profit as an ultimate goal, there is no real test by which its efficiency can be measured.

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

After quoting Dr. Harry R. Lillie from Dundee as saying our visiting cougar should not have been shot by police, I had two near-abusive phone calls from local hunters. "Have you ever looked a cougar in the eye?" asked one. "If you had," he added, "you wouldn't print such tripe."

The other sportsman took umbrage because Dr. Lillie said hunters have a primitive sadistic streak. "The man is just a crackpot," he declared. "Man has always been a hunter and always will be."

Dr. Lillie still maintains the cougar should have been put to sleep with a tranquillizer gun and returned to the wilderness.

Several Victoria animal lovers have rallied to his cause, and Mrs. James Barr of 965 Trans-Canada Highway declared:

"It is time someone spoke up against all this needless killing."

Mrs. Barr didn't go for my argument that animals themselves are cruel.

"Lions and tigers don't hunt for pleasure," she said. "They only hunt for food. And as for dogs they are capable of great kindness to smaller creatures. Why, only today our dog Freda intervened when Roger the cat was going to kill a mouse."

"She got in between them and nudged the mouse into the bushes so the cat could not get at it."

Wonders never cease!

Mrs. J. P. Wyseman of 917 Stafford Street tells me her husband achieved "the perfect crib" when they were playing at their summer cottage at Shawnigan Lake last Saturday.

"He had the Jack of Clubs in his hand," she said, "and then he turned up three fives and a five of clubs, making a crib of 29."

When I told her I knew nothing of crib, she exclaimed: "That is unbelievable—I heard them call out 'Crib' when I asked for you!"

TOPICS OF THE DAY

City public works today recommended creation of two 30-minute parking zones with in the two-hour parking areas.

Purpose is to provide a turnover of curbside space outside retail outlets.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Would you please tell me why Americans are superstitious about a two-dollar bill? When and where did the superstition originate?—M.R.H.

A. It is believed generally to have originated during and just after the American Civil War, when many of them were in circulation and all paper money was automatically suspect. Also, the design was for many years similar to the $20 bill, and confusion of the two led to the long-time custom of tearing one corner off the two-dollar bill, marking it as a bill to be distrusted. Few are in circulation at present.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times," 1100-1101, 1102-1103, 1104-1105, 1106-1107, 1108-1109, 1110-1111, 1112-1113, 'Swan of Avon' Lives Only on Today's Stage

This summer Sue Butt of Victoria, top-ranked Canadian women's singles tennis player, is competing in European tournaments. Between games she is writing her impressions of places she visits. These will appear in the Times.

By SUSAN BUTT

Manchester, England. I made my pilgrimage to Stratford-on-Avon on a free day during the Cheltenham tennis championships and experienced, not the thrill of close to touch with the Shakespearean wonder, but rather the scrape of a hard tourist trade.

Even the graceful swans grappled for chunks of bread in the sunlight. Even in June the slanting greens were clustered tight with holidayers.

His Memory Supports the Hucksters

The only tribute to the "Bard of Avon" to be found in Stratford is that his memory can support so many hotel managers, so many postcard vendors, so many doormen and so many book sellers (who market flimsy pamphlets on Shakespeare or well known works on Shakespeare abridged for tourists).

Perhaps I am being too severe with Stratford — for a price one may see Shakespeare's birthplace.

This is a half-timbered building of the early 1500s which has been completely replastered, refurbished and remodelled for the tourist's delight.

For another price one may visit the site of New Place, the house purchased by Shakespeare on his retirement. Only some scanty foundations of the structure remain.

Nearby is an ancient mulberry tree claimed to be grown from a cutting of a tree once planted by Shakespeare.

The farce of Stratford has grown from the myth of Shakespeare whose life will always be a mystery.

This "Mecca of the Muse" as Swans edged along the Avon River banks, boldly approaching the tourists. They eyed the Stratford visitors eagerly to see if they carried anything that swans might eat.

A bird singing along the woodland footpath to Anne Hathaway's Cottage was drowned by the chatter of 30 members of an organized tour.

Anyone who hopes to wander in the past and to grasp the Shakespearean legend more closely through contact with the poet's town, will not hope for long after arriving in Stratford.

For no door is passable without an admission charge. (This includes the door to Holy Trinity Church where the playwright is buried.)

No path can be walked without meeting a fence or a "no entrance" sign or a pay gate.

Stratford has been called will never be other than a fading star of T. S. Eliot's "hollow men."

But there are reprieves for Stratford.

The children, rowing up and down the river in rented boats, are happy and their parents watching from the lawns are content.

Packs of uniformed boys and girls on school excursions are eating ice cream, groups of young men in pubs are drinking ale and lone intellectuals in libraries are devouring Shakespearean manuscripts.

But the greatest reprieve comes when the first actor steps onto the stage in the Shakespearean Memorial Theatre.

Here, the "Swan of Avon" lives again as the greatest Shakespearean actors and actresses in the world combine with director Peter Hall, to present the real Shakespeare.

"My goodness, I'd completely forgotten where I was," commented one lady as the curtain fell on the first act of "Much Ado About Nothing." We all agreed with her.

The theatre alone holds the true spirit of Shakespeare.

Nearing end of a year exchange teaching here, trio pictured above will soon be returning to homes in England. Miss Aurea Read, left, will travel back to Lee-on-Solent in Hampshire, by way of Prince Rupert where she will make a short visit; Miss Mary Scott, centre, plans a trip to Banff and the Great Lakes on her way home to Knutsford, Cheshire, and Miss Maureen Dumbrell, will visit in Arizona and Mexico en route back to Eastbourne, Sussex. All three say they have enjoyed their year in Victoria, and one of the things they will always remember is the centrally-heated schools and homes.

Historic Places Visited

Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah returned to Victoria on Sunday after a short visit to the Atlantic coast. She accompanied Mayor Scurrah to the recent mayors' convention in Halifax. Social program arranged for the convention included a coffee party in Nova Scotia's historic Government House and an entertainment in equally historic Province House.

Following the convention, Mayor and Mrs. Scurrah went on to Prince Edward Island, where they were entertained at a reception and buffet supper given by Mayor Walthen Gaudet of Charlottetown, and attended by Lieutenant-Governor F. W. Hyndman and Premier Walter R. Shaw. They called at Province House and signed the historic guest book in which the first name recorded is John A. Macdonald. They also visited "Green Gables," home of famed Canadian author, L. M. Montgomery.

En route back to Victoria, Mayor Scurrah stopped over in Annapolis, Ont., to attend a civil defence gathering. He is expected home on Thursday.

Technical School Training Needed

Need of vocational and technical training schools in Victoria area was stressed at meeting of Local Council of Women in the Public Library music room, Monday afternoon.

"Markets are flooded with high school graduates of the 'war baby' generation," said J. Sharples, National Unemployment Insurance Commission.

"Skilled European workers that Canada had counted on are now being needed on that continent and these graduates have not been given the kind of training that will help them to take up such skilled vocations."

Discussion was planned in conjunction with "Technical Training Week," first of its kind in Canada. Dr. Henrietta Anderson acted as chairman.

Mr. Sharples expressed concern about the "large number of school drop-outs and slow learners who should be given special training to develop other skills."

He pointed out that "in the past a grade 8 education was sufficient to take an apprenticeship, now grade 12 is usually required." Majority of unemployed today have grade 8 or 9 education, he noted, but found it heart-warming that "many of these are attending night school and seeking information on training."

Second speaker, W. S. Gibson of Greater Victoria School Board described the industrial arts program as it operates in Victoria High School, "a very important part of a general academic training."

He also described the adult education division program.

DIEF PLAN BACKED

Labor MPs Hit
Dief Proposal

LONDON (Reuters)—A group of socialists Monday night put forward a parliamentary motion opposing British membership in the European Common Market and backing Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's proposal for a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference to consider the issue.

They injected a touch of drama into the current controversy of whether Britain should join the Common Market, by releasing their motion just before a private meeting of Labor members of Parliament called to consider this particular question.

The Labor signatories of the motion were Sir Lynn Ungoed-Thomas, former solicitor-general; Emanuel Shinwell, former defence minister; Arthur Creech Jones, former colonial secretary; John Dugdale, former colonial minister of state; and E. C. Gooch, a former Labor party chairman.

Their motion asked the House of Commons to express grave concern over:

"The threat to the survival of the Commonwealth by the pressure not only to make this country enter into a Euro-tion to meet all reasonable borrowing requirements of credit-worthy businesses and institutions."

Said Mr. Coyne: "Its liquidity has increased further through 1961 to date. Some further increase, of course, is to be expected, but too much would do no good and much harm."

"Adherence to the principles of sound money may sound old-fashioned to some, but it is not a question of orthodoxy or tradition, or of adhering to a fetish, or of restricting as by a check rein, the level of economic activity."

"The maintenance of sound monetary conditions, of a sound currency, is itself a constructive force which is vital to the continuation of economic progress."

"The object of monetary policy in this country is to assist and encourage maximum growth and expansion of which the economy is capable, and rising standards of living, not just for short periods or in hectic bursts, but on a stable basis, over long periods, and without the social strains and injustices and economic distortions that are the offspring of inflationary policies."

"Let us not be fooled by the suggestion that easy money means easy production or easy sales, either at home or abroad, sound money is part of the foundation which must exist if business is to expand and be profitable, and if the economy itself is to be progressive and equitable for all members of the community."

The finance minister has consistently turned down opposition requests that Mr. Coyne appear before a House of Commons committee to give his views on what was wrong with the economy.

Coyne, a 51-year-old lawyer, has been governor of the central bank since 1955. He got along well with the former

$914 Extra Awarded Contractor

Lyman C. Young, excavation contractor of Esquimalt Lagoon, recovered $914 in Victoria County Court Monday afternoon in connection with a contract to build a pipeline ditch at Pat Bay Airport.

Mr. Young claimed this amount from A. C. Allan of Vancouver, stating the digging of a ditch 6,904 feet in length took twice as long as expected because of heavy rains and a quantity of rock which had to be dug out of the ditch.

TOO HIGH

Mr. Allen had agreed to pay part of the charges, but claimed the figure $914 was too high.

He said the pipe-laying was part of improvements being carried out at the airport by request of the department of transport.

Judge J. B. Clearhugh directed that Mr. Lyman Young was entitled to the amount he claimed.

Island Pilot Gave His Life To Save Town

COURTENAY—Letters of gratitude and condolence are being received by Mr. and Mrs. Hector Columbo of Cumberland, parents of a 21-year-old RCAF jet pilot who was killed recently in an air crash at Carman, Manitoba.

In their letters, Prairie residents who witnessed the accident said Gary Columbo gave his life to save their town.

They said the pilot could have bailed out of his plane earlier and saved his life, but stayed instead with the aircraft until it had passed over the town.

When he did eject at low altitude it was too late. He died five hours after bailing out.

According to the pilot's commanding officer, failure of the speed brakes to slow the dive of the T33 jet trainer was responsible for the tragedy. He was on his third solo training flight on the day of the accident.

ALBERNI—A public meeting will be held at the Alberni Elementary School tonight to discuss proposed changes to the postal service.

The meeting precedes by two weeks a plebiscite to decide whether residents favor the institution of a house-to-house delivery service.

The new service would result in the closure of the Alberni Post Office.

The issue has become controversial. Mayor Mabel Anderson strongly favors retention of the Alberni Post Office.

She opposed a motion by her council asking the postmaster-general to authorize a plebiscite on the issue.

VANCOUVER—David Lloyd Peters of Duncan Monday was awarded a $200 bursary to the University of B.C. or Victoria College by the Odd Fellows' joint bursary committee.

A $100 award went to Donna H. MacKenzie of Cumberland.

DUNCAN—Directors of Cowichan Agricultural Society have been assured by Recreation Minister Earle Westwood that farm wood lots on Cobble Hill will not be placed into the proposed Bruce McKelvie memorial park. His department is "most reluctant to place large tracts of productive land into park reserves," he wrote the society.

DUNCAN—Contract for the construction of a four-room school at Maple Bay has been awarded by Cowichan District 65 School Board to Cowichan Construction Ltd. Tender of the Duncan firm was $46,832, lowest of four received by the board.

DUNCAN—The second Mid-Island summer school for students who failed to obtain necessary credits in June examinations will be held at Mount Prevost High School from July 17 until Aug. 18.

Classes will begin at 8:25 a.m. and continue until 12:30 p.m. Monday to Friday.

Subjects to be offered this summer include: English, social studies, mathematics, science, French and Latin.

Cost of one course is $35. Two courses cost $45 and three $50.

NFLD. FIRE FLARES UP BUT WIND SAVES TOWN

(See Page 10)
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A forest fire which threatened to wipe out two Bonaville Bay communities Monday flared up again today but a change in wind drove it away from settled areas.

Hundreds of residents of Hare Bay and adjacent Dover, 110 miles northwest of here, fled their homes Monday night while a force of 1,000 firefighters struggled to keep the flames from over-running the town. Most returned this morning.

U.S. Security Officer Jailed On Spy Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Irvin Chambers Scarbeck, an American foreign service officer, was arrested here today on charges of turning over national security information to the Communist government of Poland.

Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, who announced the arrest, said FBI agents took Scarbeck into custody on a Washington street.

Scarbeck, a long-time employee of the state department, has been serving as second secretary in the American embassy at Warsaw. He returned here a week ago.

Scarbeck, 41, is a native of Brooklyn. Twice married, he has four children.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said Scarbeck was arrested on a warrant charging that from January through May of this year he transmitted classified information "affecting the security of the United States" to an agent of the people's republic of Poland.

Traced by Embassy

The FBI investigation, Hoover said, was based on information initially developed by the security office of the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw.

The justice department did not disclose the nature of the information Scarbeck is accused of passing to the Poles. Conviction under the charges carries a fine of $10,000, 10 years imprisonment or both.

Scarbeck was first employed by the state department in July, 1952, when he was transferred to San Francisco. He was commissioned as a foreign service officer in 1956. He received his assignment to Warsaw in December, 1958.

Prior to his employment by the state department he was a staff officer for the U.S. high commissioner in Germany.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said a woman was involved in the case.

"I was told that a Polish blonde seduced him and then blackmailed him," Fulbright said.

Peace Walkers Barred

LE HAVRE, France (AP)—French authorities today refused to let 25 "peace marchers" land in France. The group included Norwegians, Americans, Swedes and had planned to walk to Paris and then to Moscow, as a demonstration against nuclear arms.

Tractor Group in Havana

HAVANA (CP)—The American delegation representing the "Tractors for Freedom" committee arrived here early today by air and was greeted by middle-ranking officials of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government.

The four-member delegation flew in from Miami to arrange the exchange of 1,200 prisoners captured in the April 17 invasion for 500 tractors.

The mission was received at the airport by Major Luis Crespo of the Institute of Agrarian Reform; Enrique Cabre, chief of machinery of the institute; and Fernando Otero, aide to President Osvaldo Dorticos.

Castro left for Oriente province before the arrival of the mission.

Before leaving Miami the group declared its "humanitarian purpose" is to free the captured invaders by exchanging tractors for them, as originally proposed by Castro.

The technical delegation has limited powers to negotiate within terms set by its parent "Tractors for Freedom" Committee of prominent U.S. citizens.

'EXPLORATORY' SAYS JOHN D.

OTTAWA (CP)—Commonwealth relations secretary Duncan Sandys will come to Ottawa soon, probably in the second week of July, for discussions on a possible United Kingdom move to join the Common Market, Prime Minister Diefenbaker informed the Commons today.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that, in arranging for the talks, the Canadian government has made it clear they should be only "exploratory" and not involve binding decisions or understandings on what Canada's attitude would be to such a move.

The prime minister reiterated his proposal, made in the Commons last Friday, for a collective ministerial meeting of Commonwealth members. He suggested this might take place at next fall's regular meeting of Commonwealth economic ministers.

He said that some press comment on his statement last Friday, when he said a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers should be held "if necessary," incorrectly assumed that he wanted an immediate meeting of prime ministers.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it's impossible now to state whether such a meeting would be necessary. It would depend on the outcome of other talks. But he said the government is insisting on "thorough and effective consultation."

New Trouble On Test Ban

GENEVA (AP)—The future of the stalled nuclear test ban talks was cast in deeper doubt today as Russia's insistence that the West either accept an inspection veto or transfer negotiations to the impending general disarmament conference.

Britain and the United States rejected both proposals but added that the proposal to transfer the talks would be studied carefully in London and Washington. They made clear previously they would never agree to a veto over the control machinery.

JFK Cancels Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy cancelled a speaking engagement today to speed recovery of his ailing back. Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said the decision indicated no worsening of the president's condition.

Major Economic Row Looms In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Governor James E. Coyne of the Bank of Canada said today Finance Minister Fleming has requested his immediate resignation.

Mr. Coyne said he "will not resign quietly" under the circumstances relating to Mr. Fleming's request that he leave his post now and not wait for the Dec. 31 expiry of the governor's seven-year term.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Fleming declined comment when Liberal Paul Martin (Essex East) asked him about a Canadian Press story that Mr. Coyne had been asked to resign.

In a statement Mr. Coyne said Mr. Fleming had told him the cabinet was upset by the action of the central bank's board of directors in February, 1960, improving conditions of the pension for the bank's governors.

The finance minister said cabinet felt the bank governor had failed to discharge the responsibilities of his office in allowing the board of directors to take action on the pension, Mr. Coyne said.

Mr. Coyne said the action was taken unanimously and after thorough consideration and that the justice department had said it was entirely within the powers of the board.

'I Cannot Accept This Slander'

"This slander upon my own integrity I cannot ignore or accept," Mr. Coyne said. "It appears to be another element in a general campaign of injury and defamation directed against Crown corporations, the chief executive officers and other public servants."

"I cannot and will not resign quietly under such circumstances."

"For the sake of future governors of the bank, and in the interest of propriety and decency in the processes of government and in the conduct of public affairs, I feel myself under an obligation to ensure that this matter is brought into the open in order that it may receive full consideration and discussion."

"I may add that at no time has the government expressed disagreement with the operations of the Bank of Canada under my management, either in the field of monetary policy or in those fields, in which we act solely as agents and under the instructions of the minister of finance, namely in debt management and in operation of the exchange fund."

Mr. Coyne said that Mr. Fleming's request for his resignation was made on Tuesday, May 30 on behalf of the federal government.

The governor said Mr. Fleming told him the government was considering what action to take in the matter of the pension, had not yet come to a decision, and wanted Mr. Coyne's resignation before it came to a decision.

According to the rules of the bank's pension fund—a special pension has always been provided to a governor or deputy governor immediately on termination of service.

Mr. Coyne added in his statement:

"The minister of finance has suggested to me that another reason the government wanted me out of the way was that they were preparing certain programs which were apparently thought to be of such character that I would oppose them."

'Alarming Suggestion' Not Clarified

"This mysterious and alarming suggestion has not been some stage and in some clarified. Clearly I would be circumstances it would be the betraying of the duties of my office of duty of the governor of the bank to resign under such circumstances."

"It is for the government to policy, or on the other hand disclose to the public what it is to make a strong public stand is they are planning to do. I against some government proposal, and do not wish to do so."

Money Mart On the Jump

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's money market registered hourly fluctuations today following announcement by James Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, that Finance Minister Fleming had demanded his resignation.

Bank spokesmen said exchange rates between the Canadian dollar and foreign currencies, normally steady on a daily basis, fluctuated hourly. Some changes were by more than half of one per cent.

The discount on the U.S. dollar fell to as little as 11-16 of one per cent from an opening quote of 15-32 per cent at the day's opening.

The pound sterling gained in terms of the Canadian dollar, to $2.764 from an opening quote of $2.753-52.

COYNE CASE REASON FOR BUDGET DELAY

'Monetary Policy Dispute'

By TOM GOULD
Times' Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—The Conservative government has demanded the resignation of Bank of Canada Governor James E. Coyne in a fundamental dispute over monetary policy. The dispute is the reason the budget had been held up for weeks.

This was learned today from official sources in the wake of Mr. Coyne's disclosure the government has asked for his resignation.

The government decided to fire the governor on a matter completely divorced from the main conflict—namely changes in Bank of Canada pension plan arrangements.

In view of Mr. Coyne's refusal to resign "quietly" the cabinet will have to decide whether to fire him. Under the Bank Act, he holds office at the pleasure of the cabinet.

The entire issue is expected to precipitate a major debate in the House of Commons.

The conflict, according to a reliable informant, stems from

AT LAOS TALKS

Gromyko Blames U.S. for Delay

GENEVA (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today bitterly accused the United States of blocking a neutrality agreement on Laos and seeking "unrealistic" control powers.

Gromyko, in a blistering address to the 14-nation Laos conference, said the United States was holding up work on drafting a neutrality and independence pact for the Southeast Asian kingdom.

"One cannot sit indefinitely on the shores of Lake Geneva counting swans," Gromyko said sarcastically. "Such a danger exists if the United States and some other delegates continue to boycott the work of the conference."

Gromyko's blast came after a spokesman for the Communist-backed Pathet Lao rebels set the stage for possibly endless debate over the meaning of "neutrality" by attacking the American plan to neutralize Laos.

'INTERFERENCE'

Pathet Lao delegation leader Thao Phumi Vongvichit told the 14-nation conference on the future of Laos that the U.S. definition of neutrality "means interference" in the internal affairs of Laos.

He added that the Soviet plan is the only one "that takes into account the aspirations of the Laos people."

At the time he made this speech, Mr. Coyne already held the letter demanding his resignation. As though to set the battleground in advance of the battle, he had this to say:

"The minister of finance, speaking in Brantford on Jan. 12 last, noted that the Canadian banking system had added to its liquidity in 1960, and said that it is in a position to supply whatever the level of May, 1960. In the case of the privately-held money supply, that is, excluding deposits held by the government, the increase has been more than 7 per cent.

"In each case the increase in Canada has been greater than the corresponding degree of monetary expansion in the United States."

It was made Monday to the Quebec Chamber of Commerce.

In it, Mr. Coyne said, that "Much of the discussion of proponents of more and easier money seems to proceed on the assumption that there has been no expansion of the money supply whatsoever."

"In actual fact, we have had a significant increase over the past year. The total money supply in May averaged more than five per cent above the level of May, 1960. In the case of the privately-held money supply, that is, excluding deposits held by the government, the increase has been more than 7 per cent.

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

After quoting Dr. Harry R. Lillie from Dundee as saying our visiting cougar should not have been shot by police, I had two near-abusive phone calls from local hunters. "Have you ever looked at a cougar in the eye?" asked one. "If you had," he added, "you wouldn't print such tripe." The other sportsman took umbrage because Dr. Lillie said hunters have a primitive-sadistic streak. "The man is just a crackpot," he declared. "Man has always been a hunter and always will be." Dr. Lillie still maintains the cougar should have been put to sleep with a tranquillizer gun and returned to the wilderness. Several Victoria animal lovers have rallied to his cause, and Mrs. James Barr of 965 Trans-Canada Highway declared: "It is time someone spoke up against all this needless killing." Mrs. Barr didn't go for my argument that animals themselves are cruel. "Lions and tigers don't hunt for pleasure," she said. "They only hunt for food. And as for dogs they are capable of great kindness to smaller creatures. Why, only today our dog Freda intervened when Roger the cat was going to kill a mouse." "She got in between them and nudged the mouse into the bushes so the cat could not get at it." Wonders never cease! Mrs. J. P. Wyseman of 917 Stafford Street tells me her husband achieved "the perfect crib" when they were playing at their summer cottage at Shawnigan Lake last Saturday. "He had the Jack of Clubs in his hand," she said, "and then he turned up three fives and a five of clubs, making a crib of 29." When I told her I knew nothing of crib, she exclaimed: "That is unbelievable—I heard them call out 'Crib' when I asked for you!"

Presentation of scholastic awards for the year at Oak Bay Senior High School is scheduled Friday in the school auditorium at 10:30 a.m.

Principal C. A. Gibbard will be assisted by a former Oak Bay High teacher, Miss C. N. Burridge in the presentation of prizes.

City public works today recommended creation of two 30-minute parking zones within the two-hour parking areas. These would be: on the east side of Douglas at Kings Road; and on the west side of Douglas between Discovery and Pembroke.

Purpose is to provide a turnover of curbside space outside retail outlets.

The swimming and paddling pool at Kinsmen Gorge Park, Esquimalt, was drained and raked recently after two young children received cut feet through broken glass.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Would you please tell me why Americans are superstitious about a two-dollar bill? When and where did the superstition originate?—M.R.H.

A. It is believed generally to have originated during and just after the American Civil War, when many of them were in circulation and all paper money was automatically suspect. Also, the design was for many years similar to the $20 bill, and confusion of the two led to the long-time custom of tearing one corner off the two-dollar bill, marking it as a bill to be distrusted. Few are in circulation at present.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should be sent to the Editor, The Times, 1111 Douglas Street, Victoria, B.C. The Times does not undertake to answer questions of a legal nature. It will attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

There will be no cutback in services of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Arthritis and province-wide shortage of physiotherapists, local president Mrs. C. E. Aylard said today.

Curtailment of therapy services is threatened, however, in nine other B.C. areas.

Mrs. Aylard said the Victoria clinic employs one full-time and one part-time therapist.

"Of course if the money were available and the therapists were available, we could use a great deal more," she said.

Most physiotherapists are "imported" from Europe because there are no training facilities in B.C., she said.

About 200 Rotarians will be aboard the P & O-Orient liner Chusan when she stops off the Dallas Road waterfront about 7 a.m. Saturday to pick up pilot and customs officials, inbound for Vancouver.

They are returning from the international convention in Japan, via Honolulu, Hilo, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

FRIDAY NIGHT

1,500 Seats At Drum Presentation

The general public, as well as specially invited guests representing all segments of the community, will be able to see the ceremonial presentation of a set of silver drums to the Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Navy at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Beacon Hill Park.

The drums, purchased jointly by the province of British Columbia, the City of Victoria, municipalities of Oak Bay and Saanich and township of Esquimalt, are an anniversary gift, ordered from England in 1960 to mark the navy's 50th year.

Seats for 1,500 of the general public, to the east of the playing field at Dallas and Douglas, will be available on a first-come first-served basis.

In addition, the hillside to the east of the playing field gives a good viewpoint for a large group of spectators.

Special seating allocations have been made for a group of disabled veterans from the DVA hospital, and for Sea Cadets, Army Cadets, Boy Scouts and Girl Guides.

The parade will fall in at 7:05 p.m., in the square formed by the spectators' bleachers. At 7:30 p.m., Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will arrive and receive a royal salute.

The band will then carry out a "troop," marching through the ranks of the Royal Guard. At the rear of the square, the drummers will relinquish the old drums, the band will counter-march and return to a position in front of the dias, on the east side of the square.

The lieutenant-governor will formally present the drums, with a reply from Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, flag officer, Pacific Coast.

After the drums are blessed, they will be taken up by the drummers.

The band will carry out a second "troop," this time around the perimeter of the square in front of the spectators and the official dias, bringing the ceremony to an end at 8:15 p.m.

Poor Wages Blamed In Picker Shortage

Low wages are blamed partly for a poor response to an urgent appeal for pickers to harvest Vancouver Island's $250,000 strawberry crop.

Berry farms scattered throughout the Saanich peninsula are seeking an additional 200 pickers with the crop ripening fast due to warm, sunny weather.

Growers report the labor shortage will become acute if warm weather prevails for another two weeks.

National Employment Service office here, which issued an appeal for pickers, said the number of jobless in the Greater Victoria area is about 2,100.

But the response for pickers from this unemployed group has been poor so far, NES officials said. One of the reasons for this is "low remuneration."

But NES officials were quick to add that many of the unemployed are women and older men who are unsuitable for berry-picking.

"Berry picking is not easy for older people," they said. "It's a young man's or girl's job."

They said they could not "direct" any unemployed person to berry picking. "According to our regulations we cannot place a person on a job which does not conform to previous conditions and wages," they said.

60¢ A CRATE
The minimum wage rate for a picker is 60 cents a crate for table strawberries and four cents a pound for jam berries.

An inexperienced picker may make about $3 a day when strawberries on the bush are plentiful. But he has to pay his fare out to the farm. The grower pays his return fare.

First-class pickers may earn between $5 and $6 a day. This, of course, depends on picking conditions.

NES officials said some unemployed are picking berries to supplement their insurance benefits. They are allowed to earn up to half of their benefits.

Parking Garage Plans Flattened By Legal, Political Bombardment

City Hall's hopes to build two parking garages downtown this year were smashed in a hail of legal and political bombshells.

City public works committee, licked in its struggle to pick up the pieces after a two-hour session this morning, referred the whole problem and "all its difficulties" to a special council meeting this afternoon to see if some solution could be found.

Committee refused to give a green light to officials to advertise for "proposals" from contractors on development of a 200-car garage at Fort and Langley and a 400-car garage on View, between Blanshard and Douglas, which would be bought by the city under a 20-year lease-purchase arrangement.

MOONEY PLAN

It appeared likely council would table the problem for study, although it was possible Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney would take the opportunity to outline an as-yet-undisclosed proposal for development of a purely commercial parking garage by private interests.

The lease-purchase proposals came up in a routine manner before the committee but quickly mushroomed into a hopeless mass of potential snags as legal and political ramifications were discussed.

NEEDED SOON

The call for contractors' proposals was needed soon, committee was told, because Dominion Construction Co. Ltd., which originated the lease-purchase idea had a 90-day deadline on picking up site options it held for one of the garages.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow raised the first problem.

He said he would oppose any scheme unless a local area vote of downtown merchants is held so that they, and not ratepayers at large, would be liable if the garages lost money.

The lease-purchase arrangement could have avoided a local area or city-wide vote with the approval of the provincial government.

"I think we must have a vote so that the public is certain any losses, although we don't expect any, will not fall on their backs," he said.

"They showed us they did not want to go into the parking business when they defeated the View Street bylaw," he said.

Committee was told that the city had power to call a local area vote on the View Street bylaw but did not do this before.

BCE Boosts Peace River Investment

B.C. Electric Co. interests have increased their investment in the Peace River power project to ownership of one-fifth of the total shares.

A wholly-owned subsidiary of B.C. Electric, Western Development & Power Ltd., now is the second biggest shareholder, according to the annual report of Peace River Development Co.

The report, filed at the company's office in Victoria, shows that the B.C. Electric subsidiary acquired almost 2,000,000 shares during 1960.

Before, it held 500,000 shares. The Peace company was formed by interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren with the aim of a $630,000,000 hydro power development in northeastern B.C.

He claimed operators "could easily pay" union demands, cited MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co.'s "fantastic profit" of $24.5 millions in 1960.

Mr. Thompson said MB & PW is "engulfing" small lumber firms as "they have engulfed key executives of the former Powell River Co."

"They (MP & PW) will continue to carry on this way under our present system," he said.

Thompson said that the company would be put under public ownership under a Socialist system which he said he advocates.

cause merchants indicated they would not underwrite the capital cost even with the assistance of a parking meter revenue reserve fund.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady said under the Municipal Act, the city could not use the parking meter fund—a vital financial bulwark—to offset costs of a lease-purchase arrangement because only capital costs could be considered. Lease-purchase rentals would form an operating cost.

He said the "straightforward" method of attacking the problem would be to hold a vote on a money bylaw, and if it received approval to have the garages built by the city so that the reserve fund could be used.

"Well I certainly think we should do that," said Ald. Edgelow. "If they (merchants in a local area vote) don't go for it, how can they expect the public to go for it?"

"If they defeat it, then it's their privilege if they don't want the city to go ahead."

Mr. O'Grady added that special legislation would be needed to ratify a lease-purchase arrangement, and this could not be obtained until the next session. He also outlined other technical obstacles.

"Well then it's useless going ahead with the advertising for proposals because we couldn't do anything until next spring anyway," said Ald. M. J. Griffin.

New Bid Tonight To Soothe IWA

Leadership Struggle Facing IWA

A fight looms for the presidency of the 27,000-member District, International Woodworkers of America.

Under persistent questioning, Syd Thompson, president of IWA, Local 1-217, Vancouver, told a television news conference here Monday he would challenge district president Joe Morris for the key position in the union.

Mr. Thompson disagreed strongly with Mr. Morris' contention that the IWA must accept a no-wage increase agreement with B.C. lumber operators or "consider the possibility of a prolonged strike."

"Not one IWA man I have talked to supports Morris on this agreement," said Mr. Thompson.

RESULTS SATURDAY
IWA members are voting this week to accept or reject the settlement which calls for a health and welfare plan, an extra paid holiday and other fringe benefits. The union withdrew its earlier demand for a pay increase of 12½ cents per hour.

Results of the voting is expected to be known Saturday.

Mr. Thompson claimed the union negotiating team didn't "go as far as it could have" in negotiations with management.

"The union team didn't even go to conciliation," he said.

ENGULFED
He claimed operators "could easily pay" union demands, cited MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co.'s "fantastic profit" of $24.5 millions in 1960.

Mr. Thompson said MB & PW is "engulfing" small lumber firms as "they have engulfed key executives of the former Powell River Co."

"They (MP & PW) will continue to carry on this way under our present system," he said.

Thompson said that the company would be put under public ownership under a Socialist system which he said he advocates.

MASS RADIO TEST USED AT NEW RINK

Because of 34 mantle radios beamed and borrowed from councillors, officials and employees of Esquimalt council, it seems likely Esquimalt's new sports arena will be equipped with a different type of public address system.

The mantle radios were used in an experiment aimed at doing away with reverberation caused by large loudspeakers in other similar buildings, municipal engineer John Graeme said.

They were placed around the arena and all tuned into the same radio station, he said.

Results were good, so the arena probably will be equipped with a lot of small speakers rather than a few large ones.

SATURDAY ONLY

Most to Miss Extra Day For July 1

For most Victorians Saturday, July 1, will be all the Dominion Day holiday they will get, even though it is a normally closed day in many businesses.

Last time the holiday fell on a Saturday was in 1950.

However, in a limited number of firms, employees will be compensated for losing out on the holiday by getting either the preceding Friday or the following Monday off.

A check today revealed that several insurance companies had received instructions from their head offices to remain closed on Monday.

The provincial government will observe Saturday only as a holiday and municipal governments will follow suit.

All retail and wholesale businesses, along with banks, trust companies and investment and financial houses will observe the Saturday holiday only.

NO SUBSTITUTE
In the main industries such as forest products and shipbuilding there will be no substitute holiday for the Saturday.

Victoria Labor Council spokesman, however, said that a few unions might have a contract clause substituting another day for the Saturday.

In some businesses no decision has yet been made on the holiday. The Victoria Real Estate Board, for instance, has not yet considered the possibility of closing either Friday or Monday.

The question is also under consideration in professional offices with some places planning to close on the Monday and others yet undecided.

SATURDAY ONLY
Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced in the House of Commons today that federal offices would not close on any day other than the Saturday.

Civil service organizations had asked that either the Friday or the Monday be named as a holiday, but the prime minister said the government "found it impossible to accede to the request."

NO PROVISION
The federal act proclaiming Dominion Day a holiday contains no provision for it falling on a Saturday, as is the case with Victoria Day. The act states only that "when the first day of July is a Sunday, the second day . . . shall be a legal holiday and shall be kept and observed as such under the name of Dominion Day."

Labor Council Wants Union Back in Fold

An attempt to draw the 1,500-member Victoria local of the IWA back into Victoria Labor Council will be made at a meeting of executives tonight.

Council secretary A. W. Toone said the meeting would make no decision, just recommend to the membership of the respective bodies, but added:

"We sincerely hope it will result in re-affirmation of the IWA with the Labor Council." 3,000 LESS

Withdrawal of the Victoria Local 1-118 of the IWA last March left the council with an affiliated membership of about 7,000, or about 3,000 fewer than its peak in the south Vancouver Island area.

The union complained that the council had not taken a firm position with regard to political policies as set down by both the Canadian Labor Congress and B.C. Federation of Labor, the comparative bodies to the labor council at provincial and federal levels.

In the preceding weeks a number of other local unions cancelled their membership in the council for exactly the opposite reason, claiming the council should remain non-political.

EXECUTIVE MEETING

The meeting tonight will be between the IWA executive and a special labor council committee set up to deal with the problems of disaffiliations. It is composed of council executive members.

IWA local president John McKenzie said the meeting would explore the possibility of the local's return to the council.

At the same time he replied to remarks made here Monday in a television interview by Sid Thompson, militant president of the huge Vancouver IWA local.

Mr. Thompson said, although he was not fully informed on the situation in Victoria, he disagreed with the IWA's withdrawal from the labor council and suggested the local should have remained in to "fight it out."

OPPOSES POLICY

He also restated his position in opposing an IWA district policy committee and bargaining committee recommendation that the union accept a proposed contract settlement with coast lumber operators. The bargaining should resume, he said.

What "outsiders" say with regard to the Victoria local of the IWA is of no concern to this local, president McKenzie said.

Their opinions on either the Victoria Labor Council or the recommended settlement have "no bearing" on the situation here, Mr. McKenzie said.

He and his local support the policy committee's recommendation as does district president Joe Morris, who has urged its acceptance by the 28,000 members in coast operations.

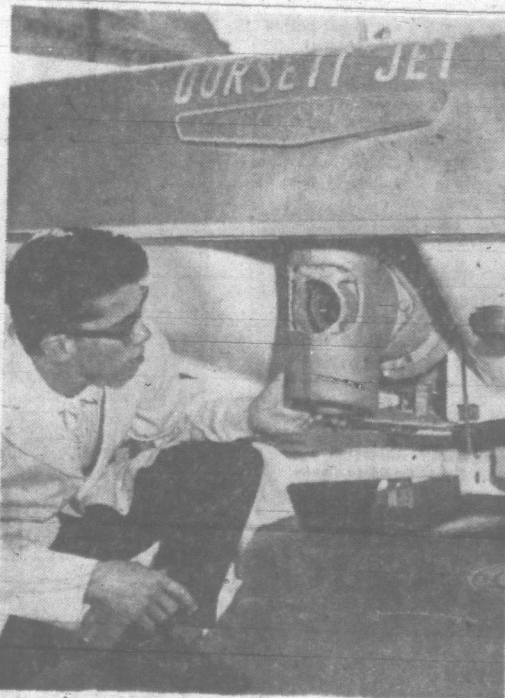

Woman Fighting For Her Life

A badly burned woman is fighting for her life in Royal Jubilee Hospital today after being pulled from her blazing bed Monday at 3:30 a.m.

The condition of 63-year-old Mrs. Ella Pearce, Surrey Block, 639 Yates, was described by hospital authorities as "very poor."

"She is seriously ill," said a spokesman, "with very extensive burns to her face, chest and back."

The fire was believed to have started when a cigarette ignited the bedclothing.

CLASH OVER 'EASY MONEY'
BEHIND COYNE AFFAIRCoyne Bares
Demand From Finance Chief

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor James E. Coyne of the Bank of Canada said today Finance Minister Fleming has requested his immediate resignation.

Mr. Coyne said he "will not resign quietly" under the circumstances relating to Mr. Fleming's request that he leave his post now and not wait for the Dec. 31 expiry of the governor's seven-year term.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Fleming declined comment when Liberal Paul Martin (Essex East) asked him about a Canadian Press story that Mr. Coyne had been asked to resign.

In a statement Mr. Coyne said Mr. Fleming had told him the cabinet was upset by the action of the central bank's board of directors in February, 1960, improving conditions of the pension for the bank's governors.

The finance minister said cabinet felt the bank governor had failed to discharge the responsibilities of his office in allowing the board of directors to take action on the pension, Mr. Coyne said.

Mr. Coyne said the action was taken unanimously and after thorough consideration and that the justice department had said it was entirely within the powers of the board.

'I Cannot Accept This Slander'

"This slander upon my own integrity I cannot ignore or accept," Mr. Coyne said. "It appears to be another element in a general campaign of injury and defamation directed against Crown corporations, the chief executive officers and other public servants."

"I cannot and will not resign quietly under such circumstances."

"For the sake of future governors of the bank, and in the interest of propriety and decency in the processes of government and in the conduct of public affairs, I feel myself under an obligation to ensure that this matter is brought into the open in order that it may receive full consideration and discussion."

"I may add that at no time has the government expressed disagreement with the operations of the Bank of Canada under my management, either in the field of monetary policy or in those fields, in which we act solely as agents and under the instructions of the minister of finance, namely in debt management and in operation of the exchange fund."

Mr. Coyne said that Mr. Fleming's request for his resignation was made on Tuesday, May 30 on behalf of the federal government.

The governor said Mr. Fleming told him the government was considering what action to take in the matter of the pension, had not yet come to a decision, and wanted Mr. Coyne's resignation before it came to a decision.

According to the rules of the bank's pension fund a special pension has always been provided to a governor or deputy governor immediately on termination of service.

Mr. Coyne added in his statement: "The minister of finance has suggested to me that another reason the government wanted me out of the way was that they were preparing certain programs which were apparently thought to be of such character that I would oppose them."

'Alarming Suggestion' Not Clarified

"This mysterious and alarming suggestion has not been clarified. Clearly I would be betraying the duties of my office to resign under such circumstances."

"It is for the government to disclose to the public what it is they are planning to do. I have never opposed government policy, and do not wish to do so."

ON SPY CHARGE

U.S. Security
Officer Jailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Irvin Chambers Scarbeck, an American foreign service officer, was arrested here today on charges of turning over national security information to the Communist government of Poland.

Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, who announced the arrest, said FBI agents took Scarbeck into custody on a Washington street.

Scarbeck, a long-time employee of the state department, has been serving as second secretary in the American embassy at Warsaw. He returned here a week ago.

Scarbeck, 41, is a native of Brooklyn. Twice married, he has four children.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said Scarbeck was arrested on a warrant charging that from January through May of this year he transmitted classified information "affecting the security of the United States" to an agent of the people's republic of Poland.

TRACED BY EMBASSY

The FBI investigation, Hoover said, was based on information initially developed by the security office of the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw.

The justice department did not disclose the nature of the information Scarbeck is accused of passing to the Poles.

Conviction under the charges carries a fine of $10,000, 10 years imprisonment or both.

Scarbeck was first employed by the state department in July, 1952, when he was transferred to San Francisco. He was commissioned as a foreign service officer in 1956. He received his assignment to Warsaw in December, 1958.

Prior to his employment by the state department he was a staff officer for the U.S. high commissioner in Germany.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said a woman was involved in the case.

"I was told that a Polish blonde seduced him and then blackmailed him," Fulbright said.

But Ireland's Joe Carr, defending champion in the event, breezed through his second-round contest with a 5 and 4 victory over John Gow of Scotland.

John Beharrell, 23-year-old former British amateur champ, posted a 4 and 2 victory over Shedden Alexander of Scotland.

'EXPLORATORY' SAYS JOHN D.

Sandys Coming
For Trade Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Commonwealth relations secretary Duncan Sandys will come to Ottawa soon, probably in the second week of July, for discussions on a possible United Kingdom move to join the Common Market, Prime Minister Diefenbaker informed the Commons today.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that, in arranging for the talks, the Canadian government has made it clear they should be only "exploratory" and not involve binding decisions or understandings on what Canada's attitude would be to such a move.

The prime minister reiterated his proposal, made in the Commons last Friday, for a collective ministerial meeting of Commonwealth members.

Reported Reason
For Budget Delay

By TOM GOULD, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — The Conservative government has demanded the resignation of Bank of Canada Governor James E. Coyne in a fundamental dispute over monetary policy.

The dispute is the reason the budget has been held up for weeks.

This was learned today from official sources in the wake of Mr. Coyne's disclosure the government has asked for his resignation.

The government decided to fire the governor on a matter completely divorced from the main conflict—namely changes in Bank of Canada pension plan arrangements.

In view of Mr. Coyne's refusal to resign "quietly" the cabinet will have to decide whether to fire him. Under the Bank Act, he holds office at the pleasure of the cabinet. The entire issue is expected to precipitate a major debate in the House of Commons.

The conflict, according to a reliable informant, stems from the government's decision to try "easy money" as a way out of Canada's nagging recession.

Mr. Coyne refused to accede. Some indication of the governor's thinking can be determined from his last public speech—one of dozens he has made over the past two years.

It was made Monday to the Quebec Chamber of Commerce.

In it, Mr. Coyne said that "Much of the discussion of proponents of more and easier money seems to proceed on the assumption that there has been no expansion of the money supply whatsoever."

"In actual fact, we have had a significant increase over the past year. The total money supply in May averaged more than five per cent above the level of May, 1960. In the case of the privately-held money supply, that is, excluding deposits held by the government, the increase has been more than 7 per cent."

"In each case the increase in Canada has been greater than the corresponding degree of monetary expansion in the United States."

At the time he made this speech, Mr. Coyne already held the letter demanding his resignation. As though to set the battleground in advance of the battle, he had this to say:

"The minister of finance, speaking in Brantford on Jan. 12 last, noted that the Canadian banking system had added to its liquidity in 1960, and said that it is in a position to expand."

$914 Extra Awarded Contractor

Lyman C. Young, excavation contractor of Esquimalt La-goon, recovered $914 in Vic-toria County Court Monday afternoon in connection with a contract to build a pipeline ditch at Pat Bay Airport.

Mr. Young claimed this amount from A. C. Allan of Vancouver, stating the digging of a ditch 6,904 feet in length took twice as long as expected because of heavy rains and a quantity of rock which had to be dug out of the ditch.

Mr. Allen had agreed to pay part of the charges, but claimed the figure $914 was too high.

He said the pipe-laying was part of improvements being carried out at the airport by request of the department of transport.

Judge J. B. Clearhine directed that Mr. Lyman Young was entitled to the amount he claimed.

VANISHES

Lana Turner's 17-year-old daughter Cheryl Crane, above, failed to appear before juve-nile officials in Beverly Hills today to explain her arrest Sunday after she had been found with two drunken teen-agers. The girl, admitted slayer of playboy Johnny Stompanato, her mother's lover, is a ward of the juvenile court.

GENEVA (UPI)— Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today bitterly accused the United States of blocking a neutrality agreement on Laos and seeking "unrealistic" con-trol powers.

Gromyko, in a blistering ad-dress to the 14-nation Laos conference, said the United States was holding up work on drafting a neutrality and in-dependence pact for the South-east Asian kingdom.

"One cannot sit indefinitely on the shores of Lake Geneva counting swans," Gromyko said sarcastically. "Such a danger exists if the United States and some other de-legates continue to boycott the work of the conference."

Gromyko's blast came after a spokesman for the Commu-nist-backed Pathet Lao rebels set the stage for possibly end-less debate over the meaning of "neutrality" by attacking the American plan to neutral-ize Laos.

Pathet Lao delegation leader Thao Phumi Vongvichit told the 14-nation conference on the future of Laos that the U.S. definition of neutrality "means interference" in the internal affairs of Laos.

He added that the Soviet plan is the only one "that takes into account the aspirations of the Laos people."

New Trouble On Test Ban

GENEVA (AP)—The future of the stalled nuclear test ban talks was cast in deeper doubt today as Russia's insistence that the West either accept an inspection veto or transfer negotiations to the impending general disarmament confer-ence.
